LEADERS BACK HOOVER'S PLAN

CARDS BEAT ATHLETICS IN FIFTH BATTLE OF WORLD SERIES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—The St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the National League, defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, champions of the American League, in the fifth battle of the world series here this afternoon and advanced to within one game of the world championship. The Cards now lead the A's three victories to two.

The score was 5 to 1.

Wild Bill Hallahan started on the mound for the Cardinals and Waite Hoyt for the Athletics.

The Cardinals presented a new batting front for today's game. Sparky Adams was in the game long enough to start it with a single, but gave way to Andy High, who ran for him. His injured leg forced him to retire.

Pepper Martin, the sensation of the series, was moved up to the cleanup position, exchanging places with Bottomley.

The Cardinals scored a run at the outset. Adams singled and High was sent in to run for him. Frisch singled to left center, High pulling up at third. Frisch takins second on the throw. High scored on Martin's line drive to Simmons.

Snappy fielding got Hallahan out of a bad hole in the second when Simmons led off with a double to the scoreboard. He stayed on second as High threw out Foxx. When he attempted to score from second as Gelbert was tossing out Miller, he was doubled at the plate, Bottomley to Wilson.

Martin got his tenth hit of the series in the fourth inning when he beat out a slow roller to Foxx. After Hafey fanned, Bottomley singled to right, sending Martin to third. Bishop prevented a score when he grabbed Wilson's liner and doubled Bottomley off first.

Hallahan got out of another bad hole in the fifth after Simmons led off with a single and Foxx walked. Miller tried to sacrifice, but Bottomley made a fine catch of his short foul. Dykes also fouled out and Hallahan fanned Williams for the third out.

Martin added two runs to the Cards' lead in the sixth when he hit a home run after Frisch had doubled. It was Martin's eleventh hit of the series.

Walberg replaced Hoyt on the mound at the start of the seventh inning.

Simmons got the first three hits allowed by Hallahan. He singled to start the seventh, advanced to third on Foxx's hit off Hallahan's glove and scored as Miller forced Foxx at second. It was the first run off Hallahan in 16 innings. Dykes followed with a single off High's glove, Miller taking second. Hallahan ended the rally by forcing Williams to pop to Frisch.

Martin drove in the fourth Cardinal run in the eighth when he singled to left, scoring Watkins. It was his twelfth hit of the series.

SHOWERS KEEP FANS WAITING

By FRANK G. MENKE
International News Service.

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—Old Sol and Jupe Pluvius indulged in a bitter brawl here today over the question of "to play, or not to play" the fifth game of the 1931 world series.

Leaden skies proceeded to weep at 11 a. m., and ceased at 11:10. Out came the sun—for 10 minutes. Back it went to give way to a shower. The sun then took a turn and put on a five-minute act and that's the way it went until 12:30, when the rain stopped and the sun took to hiding behind a wall of clouds.

High Commissioner Landis, who decides on matters of this sort, stated at 12:15 that the game was to go on and play continued unless the heavens sprayed the landscape—and the baseballers—with a deluge.

FANS HELD UP

The players were late in reporting for practice and indulged in nothing but throwing calisthenics until 12:40 when the infield was cleared of canvas and the batters had a chance to pound the hides of deceased horsies. At 1:10, the sun was shining at a 300 clip.

As a precautionary measure, club officials had kept holders of reserved seats in line at the gates, refusing them admittance until they were certain the game would be played.

It was explained that the halting of the customers at the gates, forcing them to stand in the last of the rain, was an economical measure. It seems that the pay of the ushers, all girls, does not start until the reserved seat gates are opened, and no chances were being taken of a payroll and no ball game.

Pinchot Denounces Wage-Cutting Policy

Blow to Prosperity And Citizens, He Declares

HARRISBURG, Oct. 7.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today struck at the leaders of the giant industries of the nation, some of them centered in Pittsburgh, for wage cuts administered to their employes.

Declaring that "pay cuts indefinitely postpone the revival of business," he said:

"When steel, coal, automobile and aluminum industries reduced wages they struck a blow at every other industry and citizen in this country."

The Forester returned from the groundbreaking exercises at Pymatuning Dam yesterday, where the swamp and farm land —16,420 acres of it—will be converted into a lake to aid the industries and people of the Shenango and Beaver valleys.

CHARGE CAPONE HID WEATLH

By JAMES J. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Al Capone, Chicago's underworld king, deliberately concealed his huge income in recent years for the purpose of defrauding the United States government, Assistant United States Attorney Dwight H. Green charged in making the prosecution's opening statement at the trial of Capone in Federal Court today.

Termination of the trial was threatened at the outset when Capone's attorneys made charges against one of the jurors as being "unfit." The jury was excused, but after a half-hour secret discussion by opposing counsel, Judge James H. Wilkerson ordered the trial to proceed.

Capone, immaculately attired and wearing a be-diamoned watch chain across his vest, sat at his counsel's table and heard Green reel off statistics to the jury tending to show the big profits the defendant had made in gambling and other enterprises, the income of which, Green contended, Capone concealed from the government.

Stock Rally Boosts Exchange Seat Price

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Even the price of New York Stock Exchange memberships reflected the improvement shown today by security values. Arrangements were made for the sale of an exchange seat at $160,000, an increase of $4,000 over the previous sale. It was the first rise in exchange seat prices since September 11, when an increase of $3,000 was shown on a sale.

Hoover Disturbed By Edison Illness

Mercersburg Youth Dies; Game Canceled

MERCERSBURG, Pa., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—The death of one student from infantile paralysis and illness of two others has caused Mercersburg Academy to cancel a football game for Saturday, but school work is continuing.

James Tagney, 17, of Chicago, was the student who died. School officials said the condition of the two ill boys was not regarded as serious.

FINANCIAL RESOURCES MOBILIZED

Huge Federal Corporation To Stabilize Banks Urged; Leaders Agree in Principle

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—A stupendous prosperity program, proposed by President Hoover as a means of lifting America out of economic depression, was indorsed in principle today by Congressional leaders of both major parties.

The program was presented to ranking Senators and Representatives by the President at a three-hour conference in the White House last night. They immediately and unanimously approved it "in principle," though withholding judgment on the details. The President then appealed to the American people to support it.

WOULD MOBILIZE FINANCE

Briefly, the Hoover program proposes:

1. Mobilization of the financial resources of the nation by the bankers themselves, through creation of a $500,000,000 institution to stabilize the banking structure of the country. This great banking corporation is necessary, the President said, to offset the "wholly unjustifiable withdrawal of currency from some banks" and to maintain the liquidation of all banks in case of necessity. All banks were invited to help finance it.

2. An appeal to local bankers to "make some advances on the security of the assets of closed banks (in their communities) or to take over some of these assets" in order that partial dividends may be paid to depositors in advance of the legal liquidation.

3. Appropriation of $60,000,000 by Congress to strengthen the resources of federal land banks through the purchase of additional stock, to furnish additional credits to farmers at low interest rates.

4. Amendment of the Federal Reserve act to liberalize its rediscount provisions in order to provide a "greater assurance to the bankers in the granting of credits, by enabling them to obtain legitimate accommodation on sound security in time of distress."

5. Creation, if necessary, of a finance corporation "similar in character and purpose to the War Finance Corporation," with available funds sufficient for any legitimate call in support of credit.

WAR DEBT PROPOSAL

Announcement was made by the President that he would propose to Premier Laval, of France, an extension of the war debt moratorium when they meet late this month. The conference declined to be bound by any agreement

M'GOVERN GOES INTO LEAD

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern was leading his colleague, Joseph G. Armstrong, for the second Republican commissionership nomination by 840 votes late today, with 32 districts still to be tabulated by the Return Board.

McGovern forged ahead for the first time since the Return Board began official tabulations as districts of Wilkinsburg, McKeesport and the higher wards of Pittsburgh, all strong independent territory, were totaled.

The districts remaining to be counted, including part of the Thirty-first and Thirty-second wards and portions of Duquesne and Clairton, all are estimated to increase McGovern's lead or at least give him an even break.

OFFICIAL COUNT

Mansfield, 180,890; McGovern, 139,578; Coyne, 134,104; Arm-

Edison Sinking Into Coma As Death Closes In

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Thomas A. Edison, who is dying at his home, was much weaker this morning. Dr. Hubert S. Howe, in his morning bulletin, said:

"This morning Mr. Edison is much weaker. It is impossible for him to sit without support. He finds it increasingly difficult to take fluids."

After issuing the bulletin Dr. Howe said the aged inventor was in a light sleep or doze most of the time. He indicated he regarded this as the beginning of the coma from which it is expected that within the next few days Edison will quietly slip into death. Dr. Howe said:

"I found Mr. Edison very much weaker physically.

"When I came in this morning, he indicated he wanted to get up. The nurse and I propped him in his chair but immediately we had to carry him back to bed. He is in a light sleep most of the time, and it appears to be the beginning of the coma."

Dr. Howe made it clear that while he did not regard Edison's death a matter of hours, he did believe it to be only a few days off.

The inventor was no longer alert and he failed to brighten up when Dr. Howe entered his room this morning, as he usually did, the physician said.

HOOVER PROSPERITY PROGRAM WINS CONGRESS SUPPORT

ACTION SOUGHT BY PRESIDENT TO AID BANKS

Half-Billion Corporation, Frozen Asset Liquidation, Credit Expansion Urged

reached between Mr. Hoover and Laval, but presented to him for consideration as the outlines of a proposal for action by Congress.

The President ... the American people an ... ample to the ... exhibiting ... tegrity of ...

In his formal statement he expressed ... over the withdrawal of ... from banks. He declared such "runs ... ment to ... recovery ... able" in view of the strong ... the American banking situation. The President said:

"The times call for units of action on the part of our people. We have met with great difficulties not of our own making. It requires determination to overcome these difficulties and above all to restore and maintain confidence. Our people owe it not only to themselves and in their own interest but they can by such an example of stability and purpose give hope and confidence in our own country and to the rest of the world."

All the suggestions for restoration of prosperity came from the President. His audience of congressional leaders merely discussed the proposals, agreed to them in principle but refused to be bound by any detailed plans which may be submitted later to Congress.

DEBT PLAN WITHHELD

The conference, however, forced Mr. Hoover to change one item on his program, that relating to extension of the war debt moratorium. After the President read his original suggestion, which some congressional leaders interpreted as binding the conference to indorsement of an extension of the moratorium, he agreed to rewrite the provision before making it public.

In his formal statement he specifically announced that the question of extending the moratorium had not been submitted to the conference for a decision.

There was considerable debate on the moratorium and it was plainly indicated to the President that some Democratic leaders and a few Republicans would oppose a further extension at this time. Even Senator Watson, administration leader of the Senate, declared:

"We cannot make a decision on that at this time."

The President's suggestions on strengthening the banking structure of the nation were given hearty indorsement. For one thing, these suggestions do not require congressional action, except for revision of the Federal Reserve Act.

There was real enthusiasm over his proposal for a $500,000,000 banking institution, to be financed by banks as a sort of stabilization corporation for the banking interests. A number of congressional leaders agreed with the President that withdrawals of currency were unjustified and that steps should be taken to restore the public's confidence in banks.

The President announced that the New York City Clearing House Association already has pledged $150,000,000 toward creation of such an institution. He said he had received assurances of support from bankers in other large cities.

HOOVER STATEMENT

President Hoover's statement to the conference in part was:

"The prolongation of the depression by the succession of events in Europe, affecting as they have both commodity and security prices, has produced in some localities in the United States an apprehension wholly unjustified in view of the thousand-fold resources we have for meeting any demand.

BANK AID INDORSED

"Foolish alarm in these sections has been accompanied by wholly unjustifiable withdrawal of currency from the banks.

"Such action results in limiting the ability of the banks in these localities to extend credit to business men and farmers for the normal conduct of business, but beyond this, to be prepared to meet the possibility of unreasoning demands of depositors, the banks are compelled to place their assets in liquid form by sales of securities and unjustified drains.

"There is no justification for any such situation in view of the strength of our banking system, and the strong position of our Federal Reserve system."

BANKERS LAUD HOOVER PLAN

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 7.—A resolution "heartily approving" the plan of President Hoover for a $500,000,000 bank pool to aid in domestic banking stabilization was unanimously passed today by the American Bankers' Association convention.

A nation-wide advertising plan on the general subject, "The Truth About Banks," will be sponsored by the American Bankers' Association from the start of the year, beginning after the conclusion of the association's annual convention here.

This was announced in an exclusive interview obtained by International News Service with Harry J. Haas, vice president of the First National Bank, Philadelphia, who was elected president of the association at the conclusion of today's sessions.

WORLD FINANCE PLAN STUDIED

PARIS, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—A detailed plan for the "financial restoration" of the world was presented to Premier Pierre Laval of France today by the Marquess of Reading, British foreign secretary, according to unconfirmed reports in government circles.

The plan, it was reported, was discussed in detail by Lord Reading in conversations with Laval and Finance Minister Pierre Flandin. If it is thought feasible by the French, the plan will be presented to President Hoover by Premier Laval when the latter arrives in Washington, the reports said.

More than 200 persons stormed Premier Laval's office before noon today, endeavoring to ascertain the French government's attitude on the plan of President Hoover to extend the war debts and reparations moratorium.

Indications of an extensive future expansion of its plant was revealed today in the purchase of a large tract of land at Thirty-second street and Putney way by the Crucible Steel Company.

Britain Welcomes Extension of Debts

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—The British government will welcome any new step by the United States with regard to extension of the moratorium on inter-allied debts and reparations, International News Service was informed by a high authoritative source here today.

While the official text of President Hoover's new plan in behalf of world prosperity has not yet been received, it was pointed out Great Britain adheres to the belief that any new measures regarding war debts constitute definite steps in the cause of international co-operation sorely needed at the present time.

ELECTION FIGHT ASSURED FOR POOR BOARD

Man Who Brought Probe Of Present Body, Two Others File For Office

The three present members of the county Poor Board who were renominated for office at the primaries will meet opposition at the general election in three runners-up who are to run on the Square Deal ticket. The new party candidates are K. William Schuchman, Bernard L. Flynn and Bert A. Llewellyn.

The Square Deal ticket was preempted by County Commissioner C. C. McGovern. Schuchman, Flynn and Llewellyn filed papers in the Bureau of Elections at 3 o'clock yesterday, the last day for filing.

CONTEST UNDECIDED

As the official count of the primary election draws to a close it appears that J. Clyde Miller and Dr. W. L. Henderson, members of the present board, have been re-nominated. H. H. Dixon, the third member is still fighting it out with Robert A. Foley for third place. It was Schuchman who opened the fight against the present poor board which brought to light alleged irregularities in management.

Schuchman, Llewellyn and Flynn and a fourth candidate, Agnes Joyce, of Mt. Lebanon, who filed yesterday on a pre-empted "Poor Man's Party" ticket, are the only candidates opposing the three Republican nominees.

UP TO PARK

Any move to oust the present members of the board for alleged irregularities in office will be up to District Attorney Andrew T. Park or some taxpayer, Attorney Elverton H. Wicks, of the Board of Visitors, said today. He stated that any taxpayer would be privileged to bring proceedings to have the offices declared vacant. He added:

"It will be another week before we are able to place additional information before District Attorney Park regarding the conduct of the affairs of the Allegheny County Home and the Poor Board. The District Attorney will then decide what is best to do. No decision of any kind has been made by the Board of Visitors and statements that we will take any such action puts us in a bad light."

PARK AWAITS REPORT

District Attorney Park has indicated that he will make no move until he has all the data. He has made no decision as to what his attitude will be and so stated yesterday.

Schuchman when asked, yesterday, if he would bring the ouster proceedings, said:

"That is a matter entirely up to my counsel. If he advises me to bring the action, I would act, for I am in this thing for a cleanup."

GERMANY USES SOVIET IDEA

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—President Paul Von Hindenberg today signed an emergency decree embodying a sweeping program for German economic reconstruction, and instructed Chancellor Heinrich Bruening to organize a new cabinet with increased dictatorial powers.

The cabinet resigned in a body, after which the president authorized Bruening to form another ministry, ignoring political parties in filling the cabinet posts and picking the ablest leaders representing both capital and labor to deal with the nation's problems.

Quick and drastic action, the president told Bruening, was necessary "to save the country from ruin."

The new emergency decree, comprising 30 folio pages, will regulate industrial development and capital expenditures along lines followed by the Russian Soviet government.

The government will have far-reaching control of capital and labor, and will be given almost unlimited authority in carrying out a gigantic reconstruction program.

2,000 PARADE, DEMAND DOLE

Following last night's demonstration when 2,000 unemployed stormed a meeting of New Kensington Council and demanded a weekly dole, free rent, gas and clothing, a meeting was held today by representatives of welfare organizations and the National Miners' Union to discuss relief plans.

The crowd which gathered was so large Chief of Police Daniel Zelovie called his reserves and warned the paraders the condition of the building would not permit such a crowd to enter. Fifteen were named and addressed Council in presenting their demands.

They asked $10 each per week for single persons, $15 for married couples and $3 a week for each dependent. Chairman W. K. Clowes, of Council, told the delegation such a program would be impossible and estimated the cost at $1,000,000 a year.

Present at this morning's gathering, presided over by Dr. J. M. Stein, of the Community Welfare Council, were also representatives of the Red Cross and Salvation Army. The purpose of the meeting was to work out a program of relief.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Rivalry between two Hollywood businessmen over Mrs. Grace LaRue Chiariglione-Winterhalt, 38-year-old film actress, has reached the stage of big figures.

Joseph G. Winterhalt, wealthy proprietor of a barbershop, replied yesterday to Hector J. Chiariglione's $100,000 suit charging alienation of Miss LaRue's affections, by filing a cross complaint against Chiariglione for $200,000 on the same grounds. Court records show that Miss LaRue has been married to and separated from each man.

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID AT BIER OF MORROW

National Dignitaries Gather For Funeral of Senator In Englewood Church

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Dignitaries of the nation came today to Englewood, a hushed and grief-bowed community, to pay a nation's tribute at the bier of Dwight W. Morrow.

The funeral setting was as simple and quiet as the man himself. There was little ostentation to show that a United States Senator who in four short years had risen to the heights of statesmanship was being buried. That was as he would have wished it.

The service at the First Presbyterian Church at 3 o'clock this afternoon was for the public, especially the Englewood neighbors among whom Dwight Whitney Morrow was a friend and champion for 26 years.

BURIAL PRIVATE

The time of burial was not made known. The family requested that there be no intrusion during the interment at Brookside Cemetery.

Heading the list of national, foreign and diplomatic dignitaries were Calvin Coolidge and Vice President Charles Curtis, the latter representing President Hoover. Secretary of State Stimson represented the diplomatic corps, in which Mr. Morrow served so brilliantly as ambassador to Mexico.

Twenty-six United States Senators arrived at Newark to attend the services for their colleague, including Reed, of Pennsylvania, Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, headed the delegation from the lower house of Congress.

CITY IN MOURNING

The city of Englewood, which saw Dwight Whitney Morrow rise from a small legal practice to heights of glory in finance, social position, statesmanship and political honor, showed very deeply the affection it had for its most illustrious citizen.

It was at Englewood Mr. Morrow was drafted for the important post at Mexico City. It was at Englewood, too, thathe became a famous father-in-law when his daughter, Anne, was married to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. And it was in Englewood that his grandson, Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., was born.

Flags fluttered everywhere at halfmast. Englewood schools and public buildings were closed by proclamation of Mayor Kitchel, and all business and industry agreed to shut down at 1 o'clock.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh made arrangements to sail tomorrow for Kobe, Japan, on the steamer Shanghai Maru. From Kobe they will go to Yokohama by rail and then sail October 10 on the liner President Jefferson for Seattle, where they will arrive October 20.

3 Leap to Safety In Ship Explosion

NORTH TIVERTON, R. I., Oct. 7.—(INS.)—Three men saved their lives by leaping into Mt. Hope Bay when the tanker Dispatch, of Providence, exploded while taking aboard a load of gasoline. Fumes from the gasoline were believed ignited by a spark from the motor. The boat was destroyed at a loss of $15,000.

Capt. Robert Gorling, and his crew, Francis St. John, and Henry Rotzliff, all of Providence, leaped into the bay and were rescued without suffering any injury.

Hoover Calls Parley to Aid Home Ownership in U. S.

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Uncle Sam assumed national leadership today in a movement to place millions of persons in a position "to have and to hold" their own homes.

Financial experts of the President's conference on home building and home ownership came here for this afternoon's gathering at the White House with President Hoover and Secretary of Commerce Lamont to lay the initial plans to make America a nation of homes.

For the man of ordinary means it has been recognized that the obstacles to home ownership are in many cases insurmountable. These obstacles include financing, planning, building, buying and maintenance of homes. For their removal President Hoover announced the formation of the conference, which will meet here in December.

Not only will the subject of the financing of new homes be considered today, but it was expected the organization would go on record as favoring leniency in the handling of mortgages on existing residences.

Among those here for the conference is William E. Best, of Pittsburgh.

'Tex' Brings Girl Circus Here for One-Night Stand

Look out, suckers—Tex Guinan's in town!

Motoring to Pittsburgh from Johnstown last night to crack the whip at the one-night circus in Motor Square Garden tonight, La Guinan marveled at the peace and quiet of Pennsylvania country. She went into ecstacies over the joys of motoring over sleek, well-groomed highways. She said:

"There's only one road smoother than Pennsylvania roads—the road to ruin."

Depression—it's all over, says Guinan—

"All over the world."

Yesterday, she sat as Judge in a Philadelphia police court. Ascending the bench, she ballyhooed her presence with:

"Folks, I'm here to dispense with justice instead of just dispensing it.

"Let him who is without gin throw the first party."

Last night she arrived, breathless, in Johnstown, just in time for the show. She explained:

"I had such a hard time finding the place since the flood. You know, I haven't been here since I was a girl, and really you wouldn't know the old place any more."

Guinan in more serious moments aspires to higher and really serious drama. She wants to dramatize the life of Aimee Semple McPherson, California evangelist. She says:

"I'm going to play the part of Aimee, and I'll have somebody else play myself. Won't it be great?"

M'KEES ROCKS OFFICER FIRES AT WIFE, THEN KILLS SELF

QUARREL OVER GIRL ENDS IN TRAGEDY

Policeman, Father of Six, Shoots at Mate and Ends Own Life in Home Row

Accused by his wife of being unfaithful, Desk Sergeant John Sunderland, 41, of the McKees Rocks Police Department, early today, police say, fired two shots at his wife, Mrs. Catherine Sunderland, as she lay in bed in their home at 1126 Thompson avenue, McKees Rocks, and then turned the gun upon himself, inflicting wounds which proved fatal a short time later.

Sunderland, the father of six children, died in Ohio Valley Hospital, McKees Rocks.

According to Police Chief Edward Rider, of McKees Rocks, Sunderland was late returning to his home early today. As he started to prepare for bed a memorandum book fell from his pocket. Grabbing it from the floor, Mrs. Sunderland according to Chief Rider, opened the book and discovered the name, address and telephone number of a girl.

Confronting him with her discovery, a violent quarrel ensued, culminating, the police chief said, in Sunderland drawing his service revolver from under his pillow and firing at Mrs. Sunderland.

The attempted murder and suicide was discovered by Gertrude, 16, eldest of the six children.

KANE, VISITING FATHER, AGAIN DENIES GUILT

Professor Indicted in Wife's Death Cheered by His Reception in Home Town

KANE, PA., Oct. 7.—Prof Elisha Kent Kane, charged with the drowning of his wife, Jenny Graham Kane, at Hampton, Va., has arrived here for a visit with his father, Dr. Evan O'Neill Kane, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rupert. Kane said he intended to spend much of his time while here with his cousin, E. Kent Kane, of Bradford, the attorney in charge of his defense.

Prof. Kane has many friends here in his boyhood home, a number of whom were his comrades in the World War. He expresses pleasure at hearing words of sympathy and confidence of his friends. He said today:

"I only want to say that I am completely innocent of any crime. I loved my wife very dearly. It was bad enough to have her die in my arms without having been accused in this preposterous manner. I did everything I could do to save her and when the trial is held I expect my innocence to be shown clearly.

"The people of the town of Hampton treated me very considerably in every way, but naturally I am very glad to see the old home town."

HAMPTON, Va., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Elisha Kent Kane III, professor of romance languages at the University of Tennessee, indicted yesterday for murder by a grand jury investigating the drowning of his wife, will go on trial December 8.

The true bill charged that Kane "with malice aforethought" held his wife, Jenny Graham Kane, under the water at Grand View Beach until she was dead.

AMERICA HOLDS WORLD FATE, WELLS SAYS

Author, On Eve of U. S. Trip, Advocates Four-Nation Conference on Exchanges

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE
Universal Service.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—"The world's destinies — economic, financial and sociological—now lie in the hands of America. Let us hope those hands will be supported by the confidence of American citizens."

H. G. Wells, novelist, sociologist and outliner of history, in this way tackled the depression sweeping over the world, in an exclusive interview today on the eve of his sailing for the United States on the Aquitania.

Amid his books in his luxurious flat in Baker street—the locale in which the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle placed his mythical sleuth Sherlock Holmes—Wells discussed the world's financial crisis and the British political tangle. He said:

"The financial situation is not appreciated even in its first implications by the average taxpaying citizen, and is only half understood by the world's bankers.

"My advice—if it may not seem presumptuous—is for President Hoover to call a conference including America, France, Britain and Germany, which really are the only nations dominating world trade, to discuss international exchange.

"If 20 men like Thomas Lamont, Sir George Paish, John Maynard Keynes and Sir Arthur Salter could sit at a round table discussion, then the world could give confidence to the worthy doctors treating the patient.

"Give men like these the power a doctor has, and the world would return to prosperity within two years."

$400,000 HOARD TAKEN FROM WOMAN, 93

Bills 50 Years Old Found In Room of Former Belle, Adjudged Incompetent

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—A little old lady of 93 years wondered today why the law should take her hoard of $400,000 in cash from its numerous hiding places in her modest hotel room.

Mrs. Ida E. Wood, who once reigned over Fifth avenue salons and danced with King Edward VII when he was the crown prince, commented:

"I'm 93 years old—and that's old enough for me to take care of myself."

A bewildering treasure was revealed yesterday when officers, acting under a court order declaring Mrs. Wood incompetent, searched her quarters at the Herald Square Hotel.

Confronted with the court order, Mrs. Wood surrendered her treasure reluctantly. From the folds of her old fashioned frock she produced a parcel. In it were bills of large denomination—many of them half a century old.

In the room, too, were trunks filled with laces, deflated bustles, satin ball gowns, watches studded with diamonds, taffeta petticoats, dance programs, tiny shoes and jewelry.

Mrs. Wood, sprightly despite her years, has lived alone for many years. After the death of her husband, one-time owner and publisher of the old New York Daily News, she managed the paper herself by telephone and pneumatic tube, reading the proofs and directing its editorial policy.

Eventually, however, she relinquished control of the publication and it was sold to Frank Munsey.

Leaps Out Window, But Needs Rope For Descent

RENO, Nev., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Joe Slattery jumped out of a sixth floor window of a Reno hotel on a dare last night, but he had to be helped to the ground.

Joe landed in a tall shade tree. A hook and ladder company was called to extricate him. Even at that, it looked for a time as though Slattery might have to spend the night in the tree, for a 32-foot ladder wasn't quite long enough to reach his precarious perch.

The firemen finally tossed a rope to Slattery from the very window through which he had jumped and then lowered him unharmed to the sidewalk.

TWO DEAD MEN FOUND IN SACKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—The bodies of two men stuffed into burlap bags and abandoned in a parked automobile in the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn were found by a laundryman on his rounds today.

Detectives of the homicide squad were called and took possession of the two bulging sacks from which hands and feet protruded.

The car was parked at the curb in a quiet street and it was only the chance glance of the laundryman which revealed its strange burden.

Workmen on Sewer Dig Up Skeleton

Envoy Denied Aid, Charges Flier Arrested in Japan

WENATCHEE, Wash., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Clyde Pangborn, Trans-Pacific flier, told a banquet honoring Hugh Herndon, Jr., and himself last night that Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes had failed to aid them after their arrest in Japan last month for flying over and photographing fortified areas.

Without mentioning Forbes by name, Pangborn said:

"If our ambassador hadn't been playing so much golf or something else, we could have gotten off without further trouble. The ambassador did nothing. The roll of red tape kept growing."

Some doubt has developed as to whether the $25,000 Tokio-Seattle prize would be presented to the fliers. W. W. Connor, Washington governor for the National Aeronautic Association, said the fund was in trust under rigid conditions.

The fund was posted for a flight between Tokio and Seattle. Pangborn and Herndon took off at Samushriro, 375 miles from Tokio, and landed in Wenatchee, 100 miles from Seattle.

Messages, Floral Tributes Abound at Funeral Rites for Mrs. Frick

Mrs. Adelaide Howard Childs Frick, aged widow of Henry Clay Frick, Pittsburgh steel magnate and industrial leader, was laid to rest beside her husband in Homewood Cemetery at noon today.

Only a few relatives and close friends were present at the services in the Frick home, Penn and Homewood avenues. Although the funeral was strictly private, countless floral tributes and messages of condolence from all over the United States bore mute witness of widespread esteem.

Mrs. Richard Beatty Mellon expressed her sympathy with a wreath of gladiolas, tied with a velvet ribbon bow. From 881 Madison avenue, New York, came a wreath of pink roses and lilies of the valley with a card.

Mrs. Carnegie, Mrs. William H. Rea, of 100 Woodland road, sent a magnolia wreath with a cluster of lilies and ageratum.

From Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Turner, of Princeton, N. J., came a spray of white gladiolas and lavender dahlias. From Albany, N. Y., came a spray of roses and from Plainfield, N. J., yellow chrysanthemums.

Mrs. J. D. Hallman, 1010 Penn avenue, sent an oblong basket of flowers in fall shades, yellow bronze and lavender. Mrs. H. C. Downes II, of 8321 Wilkins avenue, talisman roses. FRENCH, NOTED SCULPTOR, DIES

STOCKBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 7, (AP.)—Daniel Chester French, dean of American sculptors, died at his summer home today. He had been in ailing health for several months.

French was 81 and had lived a life filled with successes and honors in his chosen field. His first public work, unveiled the day before he was 25 years of age, brought him fame. It was the statue of "The Minute Man," which stands by the Concord Bridge in tribute to the farmers who turned back the British invaders in 1775.

He was a chevalier of the Legion of Honor, one of the few foreign associate members of the fine arts class of the French Academy and an academician of merit of the Royal Academy of St. Luke at Rome.

fortifying banks and helping them to carry frozen assets and securities, perhaps extending some relief to real estate mortgages.

This would be no more than extending the financial power of the Federal Reserve which was intended for emergencies and has failed to live up to its reputation because it lacks flexibility.

HOARDING CURRENCY and some hoarding of gold cause uneasiness. A certain percentage of the public ill-informed, frightened by false rumors, exaggerate the situation.

Why not reassure all by making the postal savings bank a real bank on a big scale instead of the mere pretense?

If the government can afford to borrow $800,000,000 at 3 per cent. for a considerable number of years, it can afford to pay depositors in postal savings banks 2 per cent, letting citizens draw out their money on a week's notice, paying them interest all the time.

How many millions would go into the postal savings bank if access deposits and withdrawals were made convenient? Deposits under proper safeguard could be put back by the government into business channels through banks, the Federal Reserve or otherwise, the government making a reasonable profit on each transaction.

Ultra-conservatism fears that "government banking" would interfere with private banking. On the contrary, it would create and encourage small government bank accounts that would afterward become big private bank accounts.

IF JAPAN HAS any plans for more territory in Asia, all statesmen know that this is as good a time as any to take the territory. Accordingly, Japan orders her fighting squadrons kept in readiness. British and United States authorities discuss the meaning of this order but won't do anything about it.

While Japan confines her enlargements to Asia there can be no objection. It makes no difference to us which Asiatic race owns Asia, although we should deplore any injustice to our good Chinese friends.

China through the centuries has become accustomed to conquest and strange rulers. Whatever Japan may do in China, they will be gentler than was Genghis Khan and his three sons, who overran China with greatest ease, sending word to the unfortunate enemy:

"By the decree of Heaven you are now as weak as I am strong."

Thanks to civil wars in China, Japan's mikado may also say to China:

"You are now as weak as I am strong."

W. VA. UPHOLDS KOPPERS PLAN

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 7 (AP)—Jesse V. Sullivan, secretary of the West Virginia Coal Operators' Association, informed that the Pennsylvania Department of Mines in a statement said 400 Pennsylvania miners would be given work if the Koppers Coke Company would use Pennsylvania bituminous coal in its Philadelphia plant instead of shipping it from West Virginia, made the statement that the Koppers company used West Virginia bituminous coal because it is better adapted to the manufacture of coke and other by-products than Pennsylvania bituminous.

Sullivan added that if using Pennsylvania coal would give 400 more Pennsylvania miners employment, a like number of West Virginia miners would lose their jobs and the country as a whole would not be any better off.

LABOR STUDIES BEER PLANS

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 7 (INS)—In this city, where beakers of foaming beer are available to delegates to the convention of the American Federation of Labor, representatives of the organization today mulled over the possibility of changing the prohibition laws of the United States.

High officials of the federation, including President William Green, have taken the stand that legalizing manufacture of 2.75 per cent beer would aid in the return of prosperity by providing work for thousands of men, and that it would supplant more virulent beverages. There is another faction of the federation, however, which believes this program does not go far enough. M. J. McDonough, president of the building trades department, declared:

"I don't think any American who now makes home brew would have anything to do with such stuff as 2.75 per cent beer."

1 Morning after morning the lord and master came down grouchy after a night's poor sleep.
2 She knew it was too much coffee—but try to get him to admit it! She was in despair.
3 Finally, she went to the doctor. He advised Sanka Coffee—97% of the caffein is removed.
4 Without saying a word, she served it for dinner that night. So good he took a second cup.
5 It wasn't long before he was sleeping soundly and acting like a human being again.
6 Being a man, he boasts: "What did I tell you? It wasn't coffee that made me sleep poorly!"

THEY'RE MILDER. The best Turkish and Domestic tobacco that money can buy is put into Chesterfield. Chesterfield tobacco is the finest-textured, the smoothest and ripest that grows—ripened and sweetened in the sunshine, cured right by the farmer and aged right for two years in wooden hogsheads. Mellow—and wonderfully mild!

THEY TASTE BETTER. These mild, smooth tobaccos are put together exactly right. The aroma of Turkish, the mellow sweetness of Domestic—blended and cross-blended. How it's done is Chesterfield's secret—but millions know how much better it tastes!

THEY'RE PURE. Everything that goes into Chesterfield is tested by expert chemists. The purest, finest cigarette paper made; a clean, tight-sealed package. "Pure as the water you drink."

THEY SATISFY. The package . . . neat, clean. The cigarettes . . . well-filled. The paper . . . pure white. And with your very first puff, you notice they taste better. Pleasing and satisfying—Chesterfields just seem to suit you, right down to the ground.

Four hits—four good things about every Chesterfield cigarette. Remember: They are Milder—Taste Better—Pure—Satisfy.

GOOD . . . they've got to be good!

3 MEN ATTACK, ROB OFFICER

Beaten by three Negroes who robbed him of his service revolver, Patrolman John Bradley of East End Police Station was thrown out of the automobile occupied by the trio one block from the station house early today. The men escaped on foot, abandoning their car. Police say they know the identity of the three.

Patrolman Bradley stopped the three men at Station street and Frankstown avenue for questioning. He ordered them to drive him to the police station and he took in the back of the car between two of the occupants while the third drove the machine.

At Broad and Beatty streets, one block from the police station, Bradley was seized by the two men who beat him and took his revolver. He was then pushed out of the car. The officer was only slightly bruised and was able to report the incident to his brother, Acting Sergt. Dan Bradley.

WIFE WITH GUN CHASES MATE

Returning home early this morning after having absented himself from his home since dinner last evening, William Talley, 31, of 1435 Franklin street, a Negro, was met, police say, by his wife, Mae, 27, sitting on the front porch with a loaded revolver in her lap.

The effort husband took one look and fled and was followed, North Side police say, by the wife who waved the gun and threatened to shoot. The chase lasted for a few blocks and the wife returned and took up her post on the porch.

Talley, after watching his home from a distance for more than two hours, sought the aid of Patrolmen Frank Altman and William Burke. The policemen went to the house and arrested both the man and wife on suspicion of disorderliness.

Kingsford-Smith Off On Hop to London

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, who was forced down in Asia Minor during an airplane flight from Australia to England, took off from Rome today to fly to London, according to a dispatch to the Central News.

SLUGS FATHER, HELD IN BAIL

Charged with having slugged his father, Michael Siegler, 62, of 3208 Mitchell street, who is in St. John's Hospital suffering from a fractured jaw, George Siegler, 18, was arraigned in Morals court today and released in $500 bond pending the outcome of the elder Siegler's injuries.

Testifying before Magistrate Thomas D. Jones, George said his father came home last night and went on rampage. To subdue him, he said, he hit him with his fist. Both were arrested by police summoned by neighbors.

ATTACK BLAMED ON RACKET LOAN

How a loan of $1,400 to an alleged numbers writer whose profits had been wiped out by numerous hits led to a fight was related in Central Police Court today. Paul Fine, 22, of 3153 Breckenridge street, Oscar Papaport, 22, of 30 Wellsford street, and James (Kid) Mordell, 30, city, were held for a further hearing by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg. They were accused of attacking Jesse Levy, 22, of 1928 Plainview street, and his father, Abe Levy, 52, last Monday evening in Wade way, East End.

The Levys had accused Papaport of striking the younger Levy with a billiard cue and the others of threatening the elder Levy with a revolver.

Rapaport denied using a billiard cue. He said he had lent Jesse Levy, whom he said had the "numbers" concession on the South Hills and South Side, $1,420, when the latter was hard pressed for cash. Levy Rapaport said, failed to pay and he asked for the money last Monday. Rapaport admitted he had struck Levy with his fist.

He was taken to the New Haven Hospital, where authorities said he suffered a possible fracture of the skull.

25-Cent Theft Leads To $28,000 Shortage

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—A story of how a clerk's theft of 25 cents to buy cigarets developed into a defalcation which might reach $28,000 was revealed today by Harry F. Oves, county tax collector.

Everett Eckles, for five years clerk in the tax office, has confessed to taking the money, Oves said. The defalcations began three years ago. A warrant has been prepared for Erkles' arrest, but court officials would not comment on reports that the former clerk has been missing from his apartment for the past several days.

M'GOVERN GOES INTO LEAD IN COURT

Forges Ahead of Armstrong With 42 Districts Out; New Indictments Seen

strong, 138,738. In each instance the vote was higher than the unofficial returns.

District Attorney A. T. Park today predicted a second presentment by the fraud-investigating grand jury late tomorrow.

He said the reason for an expected presentment tomorrow was to permit the grand jury to draw up indictments Friday if such should be recommended.

The return board will complete its count tomorrow and is expected to certify the returns by noon Friday.

McGovern lost a stubborn battle before the recount board last night when Judge James R. Macfarlane ordered certified three districts in which the McGovern attorneys had sought to have the vote discarded because of alleged irregularities.

Judges George V. Moore and Elder W. Marshall of the Return Board were to resume a hearing late today on the disputed First District of Forward Township, where McGovern charges gross fraud was perpetrated and in which members of the Election Board were indicted.

Charging the petitioners, who are acting in behalf of McGovern, had failed to prove fraud and merely presented evidence of irregularities, after 32 witnesses testified with the opening of the hearing late yesterday afternoon, County Solicitor Mortimer Lesher, representing Armstrong, was denied his motion to have the petition dismissed.

Lesher questioned the qualification of several witnesses in testifying on the point that third and fourth crossmarks found on ballots opposite Commissioner candidates, and thus voiding the ballot, were made by other persons than the voter.

BALLOTS CERTIFIED

Ballots from 14 districts among them votes from three districts where it was alleged fraudulent election practices were discovered, were certified at last night's session of the recount board which is re-tabulating votes cast in the primary elections.

Districts in which fraud was said to be evident and which were certified despite the charges, were the Twelfth District of the Twenty-sixth Ward, where 50 ballots were questioned; the Fourth District of the Ninth Ward, where 100 were questioned, and the Second District, Second Ward, Homestead, with 150 questioned votes, according to attorneys representing Charles C. McGovern.

McGovern attorneys alleged that in these three districts the questioned ballots were marked, in each ward, in similar handwriting. Attorneys representing Joseph G. Armstrong argued that Judge James R. Macfarlane, under the law, could not segregate the questioned ballots unless he called in handwriting experts, and that therefore the vote must stand as recorded by the elections board.

Official—

Armstrong	McGovern	Lesher	Armstrong
680,890	139,578	134,165	138,738

Unofficial—

Armstrong	McGovern	Lesher	Armstrong
5,433	137,675	128,700	133,521

According to the recount board records, 52 of the 72 ballot boxes impounded for recount have already been retabulated. Judge Macfarlane said he expects the result of the votes certified by tonight at noon. The entire recount will be completed by Thursday. According to recount supervisors on the certifications last night only one important development was reported. Counters said that the recount of the Twelfth and Second districts of the Fifth Ward actually assured the aldermanic nomination to Robert H. Logan, who gained more than 205 votes in the recount, while his opponent, the present Alderman Martin Griffin, lost more than 150 votes.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

Even the humidity, yes, humidity in October, couldn't keep folks away from the scintillating melody haunting "East Wind" opening at the Nixon last night.

In the sole intermission the lobby was so crowded one could hardly tell who was there. But there was color and color in the audience and more on the stage in settings and striking costumes.

Among those chatting in the lobby were the James McKays with Mrs. McKay wearing a lovely gown of black chiffon having a ruffle trimmed skirt. Braided coral chiffon outlined the decolletage, ending in a bow in the back. A string of corals was her only ornament.

I believe I had a glimpse of Emily Prew and Betsy Childs. And I saw Laura Evans wearing a smart mandarian coat of green with a dull gold motif.

Juliet Hillman chose black velvet for her gown and wrap, and wore a string of pearls and Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rowe, Jr., wore an interesting gown of chartreuse green crepe having a sash of cloth of silver and silver outlining the decolletage, draped in cowl fashion in back.

In Black Velvet

Another who chose black velvet that favorite of fashion was Miss Dorothy Slack and Miss Virginia Prew Wright chose a black and white costume.

Mrs. Charles Plarcus chose a dinner gown of gold satin trimmed with mink and Betty Dunlap wore turquoise blue velvet, and Sylvia Robertson chose an orchid chiffon frock. The John H. Ricketsons III were there with Mrs. Ricketson wearing a wood-violet chiffon gown and a velvet wrap in a lighter shade.

Frances Henry chose a black velvet gown, and Miss Anita Tim was in green crepe. Others there were Evelyn Evans, Mrs. Grant McCargo and Mrs. Roderdeau Green Annan.

Promise of Unusual Programs Given to Members in Oddly Illustrated Brochure

With Mrs. I. G. Amsler as program chairman, aided and abetted by Mrs. J. S. Huey, Mrs. H. B. McBeth, Mrs. G. R. Lacy, Mrs. Frank Garratt and Mrs. W. B. McFall, Fortnightly Review members have every right to expect something unusual in the way of a year book. And they will not be disappointed. Even the cover is new—that suede paper that several of the year books are bound in this year. Under the general title of "A Venture," no program has been allowed the slightest suggestion of the prosaic.

The club is honoring its new head, Mrs. Don V. Sawhill, at a reception in Mrs. Helen Bolger's home, Washington road, this afternoon and there's a musical program by Charlotte Shallenberger, James Achtzehn and Mrs. H. B. McBeth. This is the first event chronicled in the new books. Odd little illustrations, appropriate to the topic, decorate each page, today's, for instance, being tiny figures curtseying in welcome.

Under the topic, "The Folks Next Door," four papers have been assigned to as many members for October. The acquaintance of "Chemistry's Loveliest Child" will be cultivated in November when the members travel out to Pitt to hear Dr. Alexander Silverman speak on glass as a factor in civilization. Only a hint as to what "an interlude" may mean on November 16 is given in the decorations of becapped chefs holding pans of steaming viands. Anyway, it's to be at the St. Clair Country Club with Florence Fisher Parry and Helen Bell Rush on the program.

More About Our Neighbors" will be learned later in November and "Still More" at the first December session. Mystery surrounds the Christmas program which is indicated only by interrogation points. "The American Melody" by a cast of members will be presented at the first meeting of the new year. On the January 20 page a beaming sun caps a program of five papers under the topic "No New Thing Under the Sun." "Waste" will introduce "Thrift of Our Forefathers," "A Barrel of Crude Oil," "A Ton of Coil," "A Cord of Wood," "A Bale of Cotton" and another day "And Waste" has "Thrift of Today," a "Texas Steer," "A Field of Corn Stalks" and "The Poor Fish" as its subtitles.

To Study Neighbors

"The Mantle of the Ages" means a pageant of shawls. Dr. Roswell Johnson will give his talk on "A Moral Code for an Age of Science;" there's to be a "spring song," another day devoted to "The Quest's End" and a talk on "A Camera Stalks" by Dr. Leasure K. Darbaker, professor of pharmacognosy and bacteriology, of the University of Pittsburgh. The annual meeting is designated as "The Day of Reckoning" and succintly the program committee closes the book with the quotation, "Well, you travelers see strange things."

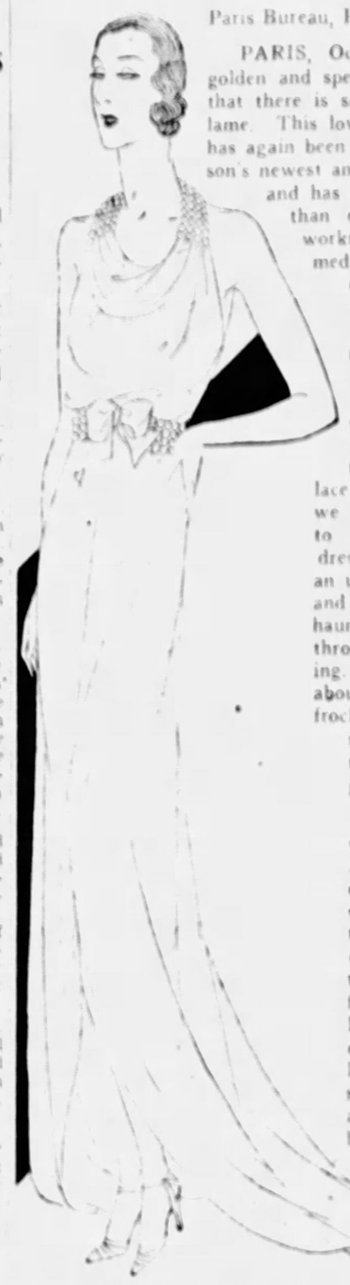
SILVER LAME FOR EVENING FROCKS

Sketched in Paris



Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 7. — Since silence is golden and speech is silver, it is fitting that there is so much talk about silver lame. This lovely, shimmering material has again been used for some of the season's newest and grandest evening frocks and has been handled more deftly than ever by those designers working in this delectable medium. Silver lame must be expertly done, otherwise the result is a sorry one, making the wearer appear more like something wrapped up in gaudy tinfoil than a woman in an expensive evening gown. We have seen sorry affairs of silver lame with lace that looked terrible and we have been lucky enough to see other silver lame dresses beautifully done with an utter absence of trimming and an abundance of chic and haunting charm obtained through perfect cut and styling. And so, go cautiously about the task of choosing a frock of silver lame. But should you get the right model, you will find it a good friend.

SILVER LAME is wonderful in the hands of a master like Lanvin. Madame has used this fabric with a pale greenish cast that gives the effect of cold moonlight. Something new to hand in the form of small cotton balls, lame covered and threaded together to form a collar that does the work of shoulder straps and makes a good job of it, too. The belt is also composed of these balls and ties in front with a lame bow. The clinging skirt is slashed up at the front and trails behind in a pointed train.

TRAFFIC ESSAY AID OFFERED

Pittsburgh school pupils who are writing essays in the contest of the Better Traffic Committee were advised today that they may get additional statistics and suggestions from the Pittsburgh Motor Club. The statistical and information bureau of the club has prepared special material to assist the students who are writing on the dangers of crossing streets between intersections.

As a safety measure the club suggests that children do not call at club headquarters in William Penn Hotel for the material but request it through the mails or have adults call for it. Officers of the club stated that they do not want to expose children to the dangers of streets which have to be crossed to get from their homes to the downtown district.

'East Wind' Is a Hurricane With Romberg's Music Sweeping Nixon

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

There has rarely if ever been so much geography assembled on the Nixon stage as in the new Hammerstein and Mandel musical play that had its world premiere last night. It begins in a French village, it crosses the briny deep to Indo-China, it returns to Paris, and it winds up in Marseilles. And along with the geography there were the appropriate costumes, armor, dances and whatever else could be crowded in. There was melodrama and comedy, romance from "Cyrano de Bergerac" and realism from Tolstoy, and all held together by Sigmund Romberg's golden music.

George Seibel.

There were marvelous voices, especially the male voices, and singing that made the rafters ring, and dancing that made your pulses beat a tattoo—and all that also was held together by the gorgeous music of Sigmund Romberg.

The thing is called "East Wind," but it blows from every point of the compass. What it has blown together would fill a dramatic department store. Melodrama, laughter, sentiment, vaudeville, oriental architecture, a Christmas tree, memories of "Pagliacci" and the Moulin Rouge, Apaches and the shapely Pearl sisters, and a white elephant which Joe Penner sells to the natives for a sack of rubies.

It's a mind-bounding show with a plot as vast as the Eiffel Tower and as deep as the Grand Canyon. Happily the late Sigmund Romberg's sack of musical rubies to go along with the white elephant.

ROMBERG IS IT

Stupendous as the show is its one outstanding merit is the Romberg music. He conducted the orchestra which numbered about 30 and got every tonal value out of the colorful score. He was born in Szegedin and he can put the paprika and Tokay of his native Hungary into violins and trumpets and drums. He can write the finest bravuras for male voices of any composer now juggling harmony and counterpoint. But mostly he is full of glorious melody and rhythm.

The cast has a number of voices that brought out the full values of four Mullens, or whether it is the rainbow sampan on the Saigon water front, or the melodramatic killing during the weird Chinese ballet you could keep on talking and raving about the performance but you could not do it justice.

It is a magnificent spectacle, and the audience went into paroxysms of enthusiasm.

The story is wandering and wabbly, the dialogue is frequently trivial and dull—but the audience does not have time to note these things. There is too much to see, too much to hear—lights, costumes, Joe Penner, scenic splendor, lovely ballets. Ah! and the wonderful music of Sigmund Romberg.

East Wind may give you the impression of being a hybrid of "Around the World in 80 Days" and Tolstoy's "Redemption," but it's hard to beat the music of Romberg.

TO MUCH TO TELL ALL

A faithful account of this East Wind would be as dull as Homer's Catalogue of the Ships. Whether it's the sensuous dance performed by the Chinese Pavlowa called Ahi, or whether it's the tropical beard of Jules Epailly as the heroine's lost father, or whether it's the railway station singing of the famous song, "Marcheta," by Victor Schertzinger.

Actors and Writers Among Movie Younger Set; No Blacksheep

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7.

A reader has asked me: "What about the second generation in Hollywood? Are the sons and daughters of the stars turning themselves towards anything useful?"

This deserves an answer. Of course, in the majority of cases, the children of film people are too young to warrant any predictions. But there are a few exceptions.

Skipping such obvious examples as Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Carl Laemmle, Jr., and Phillips Holmes, there is, for instance, Patricia Rich, daughter of Irene Rich. Recently graduated from Smith College, she already is beginning her career as an actress. At 17, Roscoe Ate's daughter has had considerable vaudeville experience under the name of Dorothy Darling. Walter Huston's boy, John, is a writer at Universal. Fred Kohler, Jr., is an actor. Robert Ames, Jr., is working somewhere in the East. Jean Hersholt's 16-year-old son, Allan, wants to be an actor, but his father thinks he will be an engineer. Fred Niblo, Jr., is a writer.

Among the executives, Jack Warner's son and namesake is expected to step into the Warner enterprises. He is only 15, and, for the moment, is attending Beverly Hills High School. Charles Rogers' 15-year-old son, John, is in the same school, and also plans to enter film work. Maurice Rapf, son of Harry, is a freshman at Stanford, but he already has had a story accepted for production at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Eugene Zukor, son of Adolph, is an executive in the eastern offices of Paramount. Jesse Lasky, Jr., and B. P. Schulberg's son both are employed at this company's West Coast studio.

As far as I know, Hollywood's second generation has an unusually fine record. There isn't a black-sheep or a loafer in the lot.

THAT GOSSIP AGAIN

Joan Bennett has the worst luck. Now that the cast is off her leg, she's taken flu . . . Laura La Plante also has been ordered to bed for 10 days in preparation for an operation. Fortunately, it isn't a serious one . . . After W. C. Fields spent two days rehearsing a fall down a flight of stairs, Warners have changed the script so that he now is to walk down . . . .

Joan Bennett

Doris Kenyon is back from Europe . . . Ken Porter, Hal Roach's publicity man, takes exception to my story that M. G. M. accomplished an unique feat in synchronizing a duet with Lawrence Tibbett singing both voices. These eight months ago, it seems, Charles Chase enlivened a Roach comedy by singing all four voices of a quartet and accompanying himself on the guitar. That's the depression for you . . . Dwight Taylor, son of Laurette Taylor, has joined the writing staff at M. G. M. . . . Roy Pomeroy, camera wizard, has opened a technical institute. His ad reads: "Would you like to have a Red Sea opened, a trained waterspout, a cyclone or an earthquake?" . . . Pola Negri is to make phonograph records of the two songs in her new picture . . . Niles Welch and Robert Frazer, old favorites whom you haven't seen recently, are working in George O'Brien's "Rainbow Trail."

HOT-CHA!

Jack Johnson's "Showboat" night club will dazzle the eye. The carpeting will be red, the walls gold-leaf and the tables, drapes and window-shades black. White roses will be used as opening night decoration and the former heavyweight champion will preside in a white tuxedo.

Says Johnson:

"Only two men in the world wear white tuxedos—me and the Prince of Wales."

WALTER WINCHELL

On Broadway

(Copyright, 1931, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

To Ruth Etting

You trim a poignant song with faultless art,
And sway the mob with your uncanny skill;
Your rapt delivery clutches at the heart—
And brings to one and all a priceless thrill;
We live with you the spirit of the song,
We breathe with you the beauty of the air—
And time turns back and we must trail along,
Remembering a sweet and lost affair.

A simple song—a simple tale to tell—
Of heartbreak and the sadness of romance;
But there is magic hidden in your spell—
And we are captives underneath your glance;

You reach the second chorus—"go-to-town!"
And all the stars in heaven come tumbling down.

—Don Wahn.

By Way of Report

Charles Gray Shaw, the collitch professor, who bagged all that free exploitation by calling whistlers "morons," visited this desk two weeks ago. He wondered if we would oblige with a blurb for the jacket of a book he was collaborating on with a girl student.

We told him we were sorry, but oh, so busy. He appeared to have a fine sense of humor, for he quipped and joked breezily. He was weary, he said, of professoring for 30 years.

But what we started out to say—was that—$10 will get him $1,000—if he can look us straight in the eye and deny the fact that while waiting for our answer—he whistled and whistled and whistled and not on key!

Add Parlor Pastimes

Crossword puzzlers, anagram addicts and backgammon fiends can thank Miss Libby ("Three's a Crowd") Holman for something new in indoor sports. Miss Holman delighted a group of listeners with it the other midnight. There is no name for the new diversion—as yet. Let's call it Name-Juggling.

This much is certain. You merely link the last name of a prominent person (or any person's name, for that matter) with the first name of another person. And it gets funnier if you keep adding names, titles of shows, books, movies, expressions, proverbs, etc.

At Least Two Quick Tricks Needed to Open Bid

As originally defined and as it should be employed a "quick trick," or sure trick, as it is often termed, is a trick that can be won before either the declarer or dummy can trump the suit to which the trick belongs. Ordinarily either declarer or dummy can trump the third lead of a suit, so that the term "quick trick" probably really refers only to an ability to win either the first or second trick of a suit.

For practical purposes there are only five quick trick values to be memorized.

A-K [illegible] tricks. A-Q [illegible] tricks. A-1 trick. K-Q [illegible] trick. K with one or more small cards as guards, ½ trick.

We must work upon probabilities. While it is possible that your lead of an ace may be trumped, it is so improbable that the ace always is valued as one quick trick. For similar reasons the A-K of a suit probably will win two tricks before leads of their suit can be trumped. The K-Q must lose the first trick to the missing ace, but the second trick ordinarily will be won, so the K-Q are considered equal in value to an ace.

If you A-Q [illegible] the opposing K at your left ordinarily will win a single trick, but it is equally probable that if K lies at your right so that you will win two tricks. This makes the average value of the A-Q [illegible] tricks. A guarded king expressed as K-x must average to win half the time against an adverse's held ace, hence its quick trick value of ½ trick.

Take a pack of cards and deal four hands as you would in a regular game. You will find that the average number of quick tricks held by the four players will be 7, the average share of each player therefore only 1¾. This is why a minimum of 2 quick tricks is required to open, for the 2 quick tricks being a half above average quick trick strength. Every sound rule has a sound reason for it. Knowing the reason for a rule helps remember the rule.

The first requirement for making an opening bid is possession of from 2 to 2½ quick tricks. The next limit may be employed when you hold two suits like K-QQ-J-x-x-x so that both suit may be shown ultimately. The lower limit also applies when several queens and jacks are held as filler. The upper limit of 2½ quick tricks applies when no second suit is bidable and when cards drop suddenly from aces and kings to from kings and queens down to small cards, lacking aces and tens. Every rule requires some comprehension of its real purpose.

Tomorrow—Declarer's Probable Tricks.

Public Opinion Strong Against Officials Who Lead Shady Lives—Fay King

FAY KING

Many public favorites declare that their private lives are no one's business but their own.

Yet time and time again we have seen public favorites decline and fall because of shady private lives.

Public opinion is loud in its approval and applause.

But public disapproval may work in silence, expressing no other opinion than quietly withdrawing its indispensable support.

For a time a favorite thinks he is getting away with it. For conceit is ever his greatest consolation.

But his downfall often comes about like that firm foundation which is destroyed from within by the boring ants. It looks secure until the sudden collapse of the hollow shell it has become.

Even then he blames other matters and is blind to his faults.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Faces Another Barrier

Dicky grinned down at me when I asked him where I could have a little talk with him.

"Nowhere for about eight minutes," he said. "I'm going to get under a hot shower, have a soap rub, then another hot shower, and then gradually taper to an ice-cold one—the whole works. I'm simply clogged with dust from that drive. After that, old dear, if you don't mind telling Katie to fix me up a glass of that iced fruit punch, I'll be ready to quaff and listen."

"I'll have her make some for the boys as well," I said, "and I'll have one with you while we chat."

As a girl, Dicky returned leaping toward his bath, while I went downstairs and gave Katie instructions to prepare the fruit punch. I helped her prepare it, and then took up the tray for Dicky and myself, finding him in his room stretched out upon a couch and looking much refreshed.

He quaffed the drink slowly, appreciatively, and smiled at me as he set the glass upon the table by the couch.

"Now, my gigantic intellect is at your service," he said. "What's troubling the beautiful bean?"

"It's about the name for the baby," I said.

"I thought so," he returned. But his mouth set stubbornly. "That's settled. I don't care what ructions Mother raises. That baby's name is Madge, the same as her mother's."

The look in his eyes made my pulses leap, even though I knew that it was brought there more by loyalty to me, the impulse to champion me against his mother's unreasonableness, than by any overwhelming desire to have the baby called after me.

"Thank you, dearest," I said softly, then purposely changed to flippancy. Instinctively I wanted a little time before I told him of my father's request.

"Junior and Roderick do not share your views as to the fitting name for the baby," I said.

He looked up suddenly alert.

"That's right. You were going to tell me—I'll bet they're pippins."

"They are," I said dryly and told him of Jerry Thorn's little flurry in nomenclature which had appealed so strongly to Junior and Roderick. Dicky exploded at the first name and at the second lay back helpless with laughter.

"Ruby Pearl!" "Opal Violet!" he gasped. "I didn't know Jerry had it in him. I'll recommend him to the people who find names for sleeping cars. They ought to value him."

I laughed in assent, then uttered a word of warning. "You mustn't let Roderick or Junior guess that you are amused by the names," I said. "They take them very seriously."

"I'll be as solemn as a hanging judge," he promised, then he looked at me keenly.

"Now that you've all the preliminaries run off, what's the real bout?" he asked.

I flushed, but my eyes met his squarely.

"Yes, there is something," I acknowledged, and then, as briefly as possible, I told him of my father's wish to give our baby daughter the name of Faith, and of his reasons for the wish rooted in that old tragedy of his desertion of my mother.

That Dicky was moved by the recital I knew when as I finished, he rose abruptly, came over to me and kissed me tenderly.

"Poor old chap," he said. "And I think he's hit the only possible solution. Mother, for all her crabbedness, is incurably romantic, you know, and when your father tells her this story as you say he plans to do, she'll haul down pronto the red flag she's been flying. And, of course, I agree, sweetheart. The old dad's the best old scout going, and anybody who's been through what he has certainly deserves a break. Go and tell him he has my blessing, Faith. It's a beautiful name—and after all, there's just one Madge for me."

He held me closely for an instant, then released me with another kiss, and I went down the hall to my father's room, thrilled with that most wonderful of all joys to the wife who loves her husband, the knowledge that she is still his sweetheart.

I waited, listening outside the door, until I heard him stirring inside, for I did not wish to disturb him if he were still lying down. But when he walked across the room, I knocked, and he opened the door to me.

"Richard and the boys have arrived, haven't they?" he asked. "I thought I heard the car."

"I hope it didn't waken you."

"I haven't been asleep, just resting."

"Are you feeling better?" I asked anxiously.

"Quite all right now, thank you. How are the boys?"

"In wonderful health and spirits. And, father, I've just been talking to Dicky and he thinks Faith will be a wonderful name for the baby. So everything is all right except for Mother Graham. What do you want me to say to her?"

By HELEN FOLLETT

Red blotches, appearing suddenly on the complexion, should not be disregarded. They may be the vanguard of an infection troublesome to cure. Whenever there is inflammation it is folly to rely upon home remedies. Skin diseases are of an infinite variety, what helps one may enrage another.

Rubber garments are effective for reducing local fat. They take adipose cushions from waistlines, ankles and hammy arms. They produce profuse perspiration. There is no chance for evaporation so fat cells give up the ghost and pass away. After removing a rubber garment, bathe the skin surface in clear, cold water. Follow with an alcohol rub.

Young women who are mourning because their legs are too heavy and thick can bounce off excess fat by buying a jumping rope and using it with vigor and dispatch. Not so good for the oldsters who, unused to physical exertion, are likely to suffer from heart fatigue. Massage won't trim down fatted calves, nor will external applications make a dent in the cushions. Muscular exertion does the business.

"Hunger Pains" May Indicate Ulcers

Not long ago I told you about the various theories concerning the causes of stomach or gastric ulcer. Today I want to tell you more about the disease itself.

Dr. Copeland

There are two types, the acute and chronic. The acute type produces severe pain, tenderness in the region of the stomach, stiffness of the abdominal walls, vomiting and perhaps bleeding from the stomach.

When the trouble has existed for a long time it is called "chronic ulcer." The symptoms are often misleading. The true condition may not be suspected. Consequently, it is neglected until the pain and discomfort become unbearable.

In most cases pain follows the eating of food. But the pain is observed too when the stomach is empty. Sometimes it is called "hunger pain."

On the contrary, the taking of food may temporarily relieve the pain. This grateful let up in suffering does not last, but is followed by severe pain.

The marked discomfort is usually relieved by vomiting. The taking of an alkali like baking soda may help a lot. Because of this many persons having gastric ulcers seek relief by the frequent taking of alkalies, like bicarbonate of soda.

The treatment may be either medical or surgical. The medical treatment consists, first, of placing the patient on an extremely mild diet. In some instances it is recommended that the patient live entirely upon milk.

Solid food, particularly meat, is not advised. The light diet is maintained in order that the stomach may have less to do and thus give the ulcer a chance to heal. In addition, of course, the necessary medicine is given.

Unfortunately, not all cases of gastric ulcer can be cured medically. They may require surgery.

The operative procedure in this disease has changed greatly in the past decade. No longer need the operation be faced with fear and apprehension.

However, surgery is the last resort. It is not determined upon without first attempting to remedy the condition by diet and other hygienic measures.

Answers to Health Queries

A. M. A. Q.—Can the tonsils be satisfactorily removed without operation?

A.—Operation is preferable in most cases although there are instances where electricity may be used with good results, depending upon the underlying circumstances.

* * *

E. M. Q. Question—Would congestion of the large bowel cause too frequent elimination or would this condition be more apt to be caused by a nervous disturbance?

Answer—The trouble is probably due to a disturbance of the bowels.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Be Loyal to Hubby When He Is in Danger

They were Bosom Friends.

You know the kind.

Two young married couples living near together, always running in on each other, never a secret between them.

Then of course the inevitable happened.

A baby came. Adele's hands were full. A thousand little errands to do—small wonder if she was tired when night came. And perhaps her make-up wasn't as fresh or her manner as neat, but who could blame her? Wasn't the baby worth it all?

Tom's wife, however, wasn't tired. Tom's wife had no baby. Come evening she was as full of pep and sparkle as ever, as crazy to go places and do things.

And one of the things she began to do was Adele's husband. What happened then?

Plenty! Read on . . .

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I need some help. Will you advise me, please?

"For two years now my husband and I have been chumming with another couple of about our own age (28 years), and going out with them. We've been married five years and they two and a half years.

"This couple has been with us, and we've been in each other's homes, until we were almost too intimate, I guess. Anyway, I began to notice they were coming to our house more and more often, always when my husband was home. And often she would come when her husband was busy.

BECAME BOSSY

"She began being very attentive to my husband, always fussing around him and trying to please him, and finally I told her I noticed it. She said I was imagining things. Well, I had a baby which kept me busy, and gave her more chance to fuss around him. And for the past three months she's been very bossy with him, expecting him to wait on her and run after her. He got tired of that, and told her so.

"Then she told me that that was all a line, that the only reason he doesn't leave me is because the baby and I are a cinch, and he doesn't care.

He says that isn't true. That he doesn't want her. Who am I to believe? She always tells people that she is my best friend, but she has made me very unhappy. We were always happy in our marriage until she came along. Now I don't know what to think.

She says she is willing to divorce her husband. What shall I do? Shall I forbid her coming here, and try to avoid more trouble? She can't be a friend, can she, and act that way?

I have always tried to treat everyone right, but now I'm afraid to trust anyone. Shall I believe her or my husband?

ADELE."

MUST TRUST HUSBAND.

Who do you believe? Hubby or the Hussy?

Repeat that question to yourself, Adele. See how ugly it sounds. You're so tired and worried that you've lost your perspective.

Why should you doubt your husband?

By your own report he has been steadily loyal to you—told you he has no use for the other woman—and acted the part. Yet you prefer to believe the serious lie of a worthless woman. And you wonder if she's still your friend.

Where are your senses, child? And what has become of your own loyalty? There's not one chance in a million that Tom's wife can steal your husband away, but there's every chance that you, yourself, will drive him away if you keep up this thoroughly unfair and unreasonable attitude.

Snap out of it! Fire that woman out of your life, pronto! And before you do, if you have a spark of loyalty to your own husband, tell her exactly what you think of her and her conduct.

Then forget her, for keeps. And start a new program. Don't narrow your life as you have been doing. Don't share your home life too intimately with anyone. Make many new friends, go pleasant places—and above all, trust your husband if you want him to trust you.

Household Hints

Rub brass trays with a piece of lemon, then pour boiling water over them and polish with a soft, dry cloth.

When baking a cake never open the oven door for the first time until you can tell the cake is cooking. It is then safe to do so.

To keep parsley fresh, dampen a piece of linen well and roll it loosely round it. Put it in a dark cupboard and turn a basin over it. It will remain fresh for 10 or 15 days if the cloth is kept wet.

When riding in a friend's car I noticed a couple of spring clothespins tied to the clothes bar on the back of the front seat. My hostess told me they use these to hold caps or hats that may be discarded during the ride. Then no one need hold the hats, nor are they kicked around on the floor, forgotten.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Position of the Knife

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly inform me as to whether a table knife resting on the plate should have the sharp edge side turned in or out? READER

The sharp edge of the knife should be turned in toward the plate. This, too, should be the position of the knives as they are placed on the table when the table is being set.

Choice in Using the Fork

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Should the sherbet be eaten before or after the meal?

2. Is it correct when dining to cut the meat, lay down the knife and change the fork to the right hand and pick up the food, or should one use the fork in the right hand only for salads? T.

1. This depends on its appropriateness to the course.

2. This is just as one chooses. And there is always a great deal of controversy on this subject. Usually well-bred foreigners eat in what is called the non-fork-shifting method of eating. That is, they cut off a piece of meat, say with the knife in the right hand and the fork in the left, and convey the piece of meat to the mouth with the fork still held in the left hand. The knife is held in the right hand as a convenient "pusher," taking the place of the piece of bread that is often seen as a pusher.

In the fork-shifting method of eating, the diner cuts his piece of meat with the knife in the right hand, of course, and then places his knife on the plate, transfers his fork to the right hand and conveys the piece of meat to the mouth with his fork in the right hand.

Drinking Bouillon

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would you be so kind as to tell me the proper way to drink consomme from a bouillon cup? After taking some with a spoon, is it proper to lift the cup to the mouth? DAILY READER

When consomme is served one sips with a spoon in order to test the heat, and then drinks the rest.

Unofficial returns indicated De Rosa the winner by 52 votes. Irrespective of who wins the Republican nomination, Means' name will appear on the Independent ticket and De Rosa on the Square Deal ticket.

PINCHOT RAPS PAY CUTS BY INDUSTRIES

Action Delays Prosperity, Strikes Blow at Every Citizen, He Declares

and official leaders of Ohio and Pennsylvania, that at the special session to be called he will ask the Legislature to apportion sums for work, adding:

"A job is the kind of dole the American wants."

LATEST STATEMENT

The statement released today, confined to wage reductions, follows:

"Nobody can dodge the fact that pay cuts indefinitely postpone the revival of business. When steel, coal, automobile and aluminum industries reduced wages they struck at every other industry and citizen in the country. Their million employes are now able to buy less than before of things other industries stand ready to produce. Wage-cutters struck a blow at a man already down. It was a foul blow.

"By June of this year payrolls had dropped 40 per cent below the 1925 average. Billions of dollars of purchasing power have been cut away, and the industries seem to be starting with fresh enthusiasm to cut this purchasing power still further. If industry has any sense of responsibility it should call a halt at once.

"The reason given for wage cuts is almost as bad as the effect of the cuts themselves on workers, storekeepers and the cities these men live in.

"The chief reason given is that wages must be brought into line with falling prices or else the whole economic arrangement will be off balance and industrial recovery will be retarded still further.

"DANGEROUS NONSENSE"

"This is dangerous nonsense. Its danger lies in delaying the business recovery. Its nonsense lies in the fact that no one would think of applying it to any field except wages, where those most affected are unable to help themselves.

"Is recovery being retarded by the failure of all prices of products and services to fall equally? Then what about rents? Wheat has fallen from $1 to 50 cents, but rents have only fallen 2 per cent. Will industries and bankers force rents down 50 per cent? No, of course not.

"Any attempt to reduce rents to the level of farm prices would do such violence to real estate owners and to banks as to produce a severe and prolonged crisis. No, every business and banking force in the country has been against this kind of deflation.

"Wages only are chosen as the field for deflation because the wage earners cannot help themselves. There is no economic sense in choosing that field rather than another.

INCOME DISTRIBUTION

"Why is labor chosen to bear all the burden? When output is down to 32 per cent capacity, as it is with the United States Steel Company, labor costs are a small item compared to overhead costs per unit for interest and the like. It is nonsense to think of making up for this rise in unit overhead costs by a reduction in direct costs such as wages.

"Let me repeat what I have said before. Among the causes for the depression were the building of excess capacity in coal and oil and manufacturing, and the unequal distribution of income. It was not the fact that prices for work were higher than prices for manufactured products.

"The prolonging of the depression is the result of delay in evening up the nation's income in order that consumers can absorb the products of industry. The present wage cuts will help prolong the depression."

SAY UTILITIES HIT FIREMEN

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today renewed his attack on the public utilities and the Public Service Commission in an address before the annual convention of the State Firemen's Association. Charging that volunteer fire companies are paying too much for telephones and electric current, the Governor said:

"The general attitude of the utilities is lamentably short-sighted in everything, but particularly in their relations with fire companies of Pennsylvania.

"I do not understand why the owners of public utilities, operating under grants given them by the people themselves, are unwilling to be fair and square in their dealings with the people."

BACK to the Prices of 15 Years Ago!

GOOD-BYE, OLD CLOTHES!
HELLO, NEW SUIT!

IN one great jump we have reached the low prices of fifteen years ago. Not for fifteen years have our clothes been so inexpensive. They have never been so well-made. For not by one single stitch or shred of wool has quality been lowered. In fact, suit for suit, it's a big step-up over 1930 and 1929

Only the leaders of the clothing business could do this. It's our responsibility to lead: we've done it. Value has reached bedrock. You needn't wear that old suit any longer now that a new one costs so little. At last you can stand up against the world and fight. Man to man—is there anything like a well-pressed, well-cut suit of clothes—a suit right at the collar and shoulders and lapel—to make you stand and trade punches with fortune? You look right. You know it. And you feel right

Dress up. And save money doing it

Buy the two or three suits you really need to face the world with the courage good clothes give. Shabby, over-tired depression-clothes are out. We have written their death-warrant in these new prices

How can we do it at prices so low?

If the world dresses up, we win

We believe that millions are ready to buy—ready to throw away their old suits

A gamble, you say? Sure, it's a gamble. The leader must gamble—to lead the way. We've gambled before that this country will always buy the highest quality at the lowest price. We've gambled before that the men of America refuse to stay licked, or even to look licked. And we've never lost

We shall not lose this time

Look now for the new suits. Forget price—until you're convinced that this clothing is the best-made, best-looking you ever saw

Put your trust in a trustworthy name. Once more it has earned that trust! HART SCHAFFNER & MARX

State Legion Chief Sees Benefits in Legal Brewing

COUNCILMEN PLAN ATTEMPT TO REDUCE TAXES

LEGION LEADER URGES BALLOT ON DRY LAW

Sees Benefit in Legally Running Breweries to Supplant Racket Hordes

Declaring that morally and economically it might be beneficial to the country to put 2,000,000 men legally to work in breweries, to replace 2,000,000 gangsters and racketeers, George J. Proesel, of Dubois, state commander of the American Legion, in an address last night denounced the illegal manufacture of beer and indorsed the vote for a prohibition referendum in the recent national convention of the legion.

At a testimonial dinner to John B. Nicklas, Jr., past commander of Allegheny County, in the Fort Pitt Hotel, Proesl said:

"In Detroit we decided on a question of morals and economics. It may be better to put 2,000,000 honest men to work in breweries in place of 2,000,000 racketeers and gangsters and make the country safe for women and children.

"We want to give each individual state the right to decide whether the Volstead Act has been a success. The Legion has asked for a referendum, making it possible for each state to vote on the question."

Other speakers were Paul H. Griffith, of Uniontown, western vice commander of the state; Jonn J. Deller, new county commander; Roland McGrady, Col. W. R. Dunlap, William C. Arthur and Robert K. Cochrane, Jr.

The past commander's jewel and pin were presented to Nicklas, and a gavel to Deller. The Edward Sheitinger trophy and individual trophies were awarded to the Swissvale Post Boys' Baseball team, which holds the state legion championship. Ross Emerich is captain of the team.

FINANCE OFFICE HONORED

The Legion ring was presented to Walter P. Grimm, county finance officer, in recognition of 10 years' service in that capacity.

Officers of the Legion Auxiliary of Allegheny County were to be installed at a meeting in the Congress of Clubs today. Mrs. S. C. Bednar, of New Kensington, is the new president.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 7.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Coming in from Hearst ranch on one of America's most unique railroads, Mexico Northwestern, been pillaged and robbed by bandits for 18 years yet the same people have stayed with it through all this. They could teach many of our concerns a lesson in loyalty. It seems a queer coincidence that thinking of Dwight Morrow, who I had met in Mexico and who I had come to think more of than any man in public life I ever met, I should be told by a Mexican peon of his death. That's all they are talking about all up the line today. They all say "amigo de Mexico" (friend of Mexico). Yes, and a friend of humanity. What a loss.

Yours, WILL.

Buhl Foundation Grants $30,000 for Tuberculosis Fight

Gift Aids League Study to Curb Disease

A grant of $30,000 to the Tuberculosis League to make possible an intensive study of tuberculosis among Negros, was announced today by the Buhl Foundation. To this grant other funds will be added and services provided by the league.

The project is intended to be a public health survey and demonstration of national significance and will be followed by recommendations for an adequate permanent program for controlling and eliminating the disease in the Negro sections of great urban centers.

The project is to get under way at once and will be carried over a period of two years. In announcing the grant, Charles F. Lewis, director of the Foundation, said:

"It is particularly gratifying that Pittsburgh has an agency so competent to attack this problem as the Tuberculosis League and its hospital. It is hoped that the project will not only stimulate interest in the problems of tuberculosis as it affects the Negro, but will promote recognition of the interdependence of all groups in our crowded metropolitan areas."

The foundation also announced that the heating contract for the first unit of 125 homes in the foundation's Mt. Washington development has been awarded to McGinness, Smith and McGinness, of Pittsburgh. The site work, including grading and the installation of sewer and water lines was finished last week and it is hoped that the first 30 houses will be ready for exhibition January 1.

COUNTY TO BID ON PRIVATE JOB

If the price is right, residents of Maple lane, a private road running from Mt. Royal boulevard to Oak Hills Farm, are going to have it surfaced with asphalt by the county.

George J. Campbell, one of the residents, appeared before the Commissioners yesterday, requesting the county to do the work. He said:

"We want a 400-foot stretch of road, which is 14 feet wide, paved. Your men and trucks are working near there now, and if the price is right we might have 2,000 feet more paved."

Commissioners Armstrong and Babcock voted to give Campbell an estimate on the cost, Armstrong asserting the road is too far from an asphalt plant for a contractor to take the job.

Commissioner McGovern declared it is against public policy for the county to compete with contractors in private work and voted against giving Campbell a bid on the job.

POLICE ORDERED TO PROTECT PLAY SITES

Council Decrees Hourly Beats to Curb Vandals; Phillips Tells of Damage

Policee today received orders from Council to patrol hourly beats at the city playgrounds, to erase vandalism and destruction of property and equipment.

Magistrates were also to be instructed to report to Council the disposition of cases of suspects arrested in connection with the acts.

Closer co-operation between the Bureau of Recreation and the Bureau of Police was ordered.

Councilman Jonn M. Phillips charged to Council that vandals destroyed equipment at several playgrounds—notably the Arlington location and others in Mt. Washington and the South Side. An inspection, he declared, disclosed shingles torn from roofs, fences pushed over and piping and electric wiring torn out. The equipment has been sold to junk dealers for small sums. The damage will cost the city hundreds of dollars, Phillips declared.

Young men who commit the depredations, Phillips said, have received protection from ward politicians.

Councilman Harry A. Little asked that Supt. W. C. Batchelor, of the Bureau of Recreation, report to Council next Monday whether watchmen are stationed at the playgrounds.

MISS RUTH GORDON . . . FROM SQUIRREL HILL TO BROADWAY

Squirrel Hill Girl In Fifth 'Big Time' Season

From Squirrel Hill to Broadway is not so far, according to Miss Ruth Gordon, appearing in the Schwab and Mandell Musical comedy, "East Wind," playing at the Nixon Theater.

It's Miss Gordon's fifth season with a Broadway hit and to hear her tell about it, one might imagine the step no more unusual than going to high school after graduating from the grades.

Just as easy as that, so declares Miss Gordon, who sings and dances her way through Broadway hit after hit. Interviewed between numbers at the Nixon, she said:

"Why, really there's nothing to it. It's hard work, but school was hard work, too. I'm devoted to the stage—no I'm not thinking of getting married, unless——

"Well, maybe if there's a millionaire left after this depression——"

Miss Gordon is the daughter of Mrs. C. Edward Long, of 723 Wightman street. Her mother came down to watch rehearsal. She is proud of Ruth and has high hopes for her stage career. She said:

"At first I didn't want her to go on the stage, but as long as she likes it, I'm happy. I want her to follow it up seriously."

Miss Gordon spent two seasons with George White's "Scandals," and last year had a small part in "Girl Crazy." She has also played in the "Little Show." She intends to study drama in a serious way this winter in New York, having arranged for a course in the American Academy of Dramatic Arts.

BUDGET PARING ORDERED BY KLINE

One and Half Mill Cuts Indicated by Leaders In Economy Campaign

An effort will be made by Council at its forthcoming budget sessions to reduce the tax millage on land one mill and on buildings one-half mill, it was intimated by administration leaders today.

Although no member of Council would commit himself in a definite statement, several said it was planned to bring about a reduction on land from 25½ to 24½ mills, and from 12¼ to 12¼ mills on buildings.

If accomplished this would be the second reduction on a small millage cut in two years.

All departments have been instructed by Mayor Charles H. Kline and Chairman W. Y. English, of the councilmanic Finance Committee, to pare their budget estimates to the bone.

Estimates are now in the hands of Mayor Kline's cost accountants, being tabulated and prepared for the printers. Council expects to receive copies within the next two weeks.

THREE SUICIDES IN DISTRICT

The deaths of a man and two women, all listed as suicides, were reported to the coroner's office during the night. Those dead are John Woodka, 60, of 1000 Foles street, McKeesport; Miss Edith Wilson, 33, of Bolivar, O., and Mrs. Dorothy Jones, 24, of 1040 Eighth avenue, Brackenridge.

Woodka, deputy coroners report, leaped to his death from the railing of the Fifth Avenue Bridge, McKeesport, last night. His body was recovered. In his pocket was found a letter from the National Tube Company, requesting him to call at the company office to arrange for his retirement.

Miss Wilson died in Allegheny General Hospital last midnight from poison swallowed, police say, in a downtown hotel. She was found in her hotel room the night of September 28 and had been in the hospital since.

Mrs. Jones died in Allegheny Valley Hospital from poison swallowed in her home Sunday night, the coroner's report states. The motive for the suicide has not been learned.

Boy Jail Fugitives Free Only 12 Hours

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Twelve hours after they had escaped from the Lycoming County Jail here, Joseph Young, 15, and George Shand, 14, were captured when they tried to hide in the cellar at Young's home.

The two youths escaped by picking a lock on a swinging panel of bars across their window, after which they forced a lock into the cellar where they secured a ladder which was used to get over the wall.

TRUCK PARADE AIDS CANNING

Trucks associated with the Surplus for the Needy movement, headed by members of the state highway patrol, yesterday paraded through the city and Sharpsburg, to present a picture of the work being done by the association.

The trucks, loaded with canning materials, were driven from the committee's plant on Spring Garden avenue and return.

Attorney Harry I. Miller, chairman of the committee, said today that the object of the parade was to stimulate public interest to provide sugar and spices for the canning project, which may extend through the winter months.

Further appeals were being broadcast today by members of the committee for donation of sugar and money for its purchase.

Medicine Ball Tactics in the Great Outdoors

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Thought that Congress had adjourned. Seems that it was meeting in the White House all the time.

The boys have been tossing the medicine ball around and figuring out a new debt plan on the White House lawn.

Thoughts are brighter, purer and fresher in the great outdoors. Here's the way the vote is taken. The medicine ball is tossed at a Senator with the remark:

"What do you think of my plan, Senator? Pretty good, ain't it?"

The medicine ball smacks him in the stomach and he grunts, "ugh."

Now, everybody knows that this was originally an Indian reservation and that ugh is an affirmative in that language.

And by the time all the boys are walloped in the stomach with the medicine ball the plan is unanimously ughed by an overwhelmed majority.

Unauthorized Beauty Job 'Heck of a Note'--McGovern

The County Department of Public Works did $12,500 worth of landscape work on the Allegheny River boulevard and after the job was finished came in to the Commissioners' meeting yesterday and asked for authority to do the work—and got it.

When the matter came up Commissioner Charles C. McGovern said:

"There does not seem to be any hurry about this it should be deferred until spring."

Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong agreed, saying:

"I think so too."

Both stared at Assistant Director of Public Works W. H. R. Kreiling in amazement when he said:

"But Commissioners, the work has already been done."

McGovern remarked:

"That's a heck of a note. Here we are under the impression that you are asking authority to do the work when you've already done it."

The upshot of the discussion was that the Commissioners voted to authorize the work done, $12,500 worth of grass seeding and top soil at the junction of Washington boulevard and the new Allegheny River boulevard.

Journey From Homestead Takes Turtle Six Weeks

Although it is said that a tortoise won a race with a hare, it took a Homestead turtle six weeks to get to Squirrel Hill. Last August Donald Risher, 30, of 314 East Twelfth avenue, Homestead, found a turtle lying in the middle of the road when he was motoring home from Miami. He brought it home for his sister, Louise.

He drove a small screw eye into the shell and tied the turtle in his yard. But the neighborhood children bothered it so much that six weeks ago he set it free in Homestead Park.

Yesterday a turtle with a small hole in its shell was found on her front lawn by Stefane Kaufman, 4-year-old daughter of Mrs. Murray Kaufman, 1325 South Negley avenue, Squirrel Hill. She has adopted it.

Traversing seven miles in six weeks is not a great feat in itself, but we wonder how it got over Brown's Bridge.

GARLAND URGES COST CUTS AS DUNLAP SEEKS LARGER STAFF

COUNCIL O. K. SEEN DESPITE OBJECTION

Supplies Director Declares On Help; Bridge Bureau Workers Waiting for Ax

Reductions in salaries and personnel in the city Department of Supplies was advocated yesterday by Councilman Robert Garland when he voted against a reorganization plan for the department on lines developed by the Pittsburgh Bureau of Governmental Research.

The plan was tentatively affirmed with only Garland and Councilman Clifford B. Connelley opposing. The reorganization plan presented by Col. W. P. Dunlap director, created a new position of "specifications clerk" at an annual salary of $3,000. Other jobs—now temporary would be made permanent, Dunlap said.

Voting against the project, Garland said:

"Col. Dunlap, if you were paying these people out of your own pocket, could you get along with a smaller staff?"

Dunlap replied:

"I don't think so. This plan has the full support of Controller Kerr, the Mayor and the Civil Service Commission. If I am to carry out the reorganization plan given me following the difficulties up there last spring, I'll have to have this staff."

Garland then said:

"Corporations that buy as much material as the city of Pittsburgh, get along with small staffs. This is the time for wage and salary reductions instead of additions. Economy should be the watchword."

LOSS OF JOBS FEARED

Employes of the city Bureau of Bridges today were wondering whether their jobs would be dispensed with as Council prepared to eliminate the bureau as an economy move and because of lack of activity.

The plan was approved by Council yesterday following recommendation by Public Works Director Edward G. Lang. The Bureau is to be eliminated with half the bridge force transferred to the Bureau of Engineering reducing the payroll from $82,000 to $48,000.

REORGANIZATION PLAN

The position of chief engineer of the Bureau of Bridges, now held by John B. Stevenson, would be abolished.

Other jobs to be eliminated are: Division engineer, $5,000; designing engineer, $4,200; assistant designing engineer, $3,600; principal assistant engineer, $3,600; chief clerk, $2,700; draftsman, $2,200; junior assistant engineer, $2,120; two engineering inspectors, $2,120, and a street sign inspector, $1,182.

Five new jobs are created in a "Division of Bridges" to become part of the Bureau of Engineering, headed by a division engineer.

The positions to be created include: Construction engineer, $4,200; two designing draftsmen, $3,000; assistant engineer, $2,544, and assistant bridge inspector, $2,150.

Throw Away Your Corn Plasters

Here's a better way to keep those miserable, stinging, painful corns from hurting. That gets rid of the corns themselves, without drawing a drop of blood. No cutting, no pulling, not no pampering.

Just rub your corns, bricktit with Moone's Emerald Oil at bedtime. If you want to get rid of them quickly. Binding the part with a cloth soaked in the oil will further speed the process.

Takes the sting right out—soothes your tortured feet at once. Corns won't hurt next day, either. And in a day or two they'll all be gone for good. They just shrivel up and scale off—as easy as anything.

Your druggist says they won't bother you any more, but money back if they do.

Stepfather Jailed as War Relic Is Used In Family Row

Beaten in a fight with his stepson, Alfred Voelkl, 17, as the youth defended his mother from her husband's alleged abuse, Andrew Meyerl, 60, a German war veteran, early today, police say, seized a bayonet, a relic of war days, and slashed the youth.

Voelkl was taken to Presbyterian Hospital where physicians said he probably would lose his right thumb and right ear. He arrived recently in the United States from Germany.

The wife, Mrs. Victoria Meyerl, told police the argument followed her determination to seek work with her son. Meyerl remonstrated and a long argument ensued terminating, she told police, in the husband launching an attack upon her. The stepson interfered, police said, and was subdued, his stepfather when the latter seized the bayonet and slashed the youth.

At North Side Police Station Meyerl, who told them he had been out of work said he was not sorry he had slashed Voelkl. He added:

"I put my mark on him and he won't forget it."

LIFE INSURANCE SOLID DURING DEPRESSION

Citizens, Business Men Saved by Policy Loans; Prosperity Believed Near

Men engaged in the conduct of the life insurance companies of the country should take pride in the fact that their institutions have withstood the assaults of the depression and should maintain at all costs the standards of safety of life insurance investments, Col. Charles B. Robbins, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., president of the American Life Convention, told the general session of that body today at the William Penn Hotel.

DRAW ON RESERVES

Regarding the big increase in policy loans Col. Robbins declared that the laboring man and the small business man have been forced to draw upon their last reserves and that life insurance loans have undoubtedly saved many from privation and poverty.

The return of prosperity has already started, Col. Robbins believes, and expressed the opinion that within the next year policy loans would be decreasing toward a normal figure.

The annual report of the general counsel of the convention was presented by Byron K. Elliott, of St. Louis. Wendell P. Coler, of St. Louis, was to speak on "Policy Developments of 1931." Other speakers scheduled for this afternoon include James D. Craig, actuary of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York, and Robert Metcalf, manager of the claim department of the Connecticut General Life Insurance Company of Hartford.

FARM LOANS

In the financial section of the convention, city and farm loans are to be discussed tonight. Among the scheduled speakers are Wood Arnold, vice president of the Kansas City Life Insurance Company; G. W. Fowler, vice president of the Bankers' Life Company of Des Moines, Ia.; Charles S. Macdonald, president of the Confederation Life Association of Toronto, and S. F. Westbrook, vice president of the Aetna Life Insurance Company of Hartford.

WILL NAME AIDES

In addition to the executive members of the committee, whose function is to co-ordinate all of its work, there will be announced from time to time a large group of consulting members who have a practical knowledge of the workings of school law in relation to the various educational activities in the commonwealth.

The last general revision of the school laws of Pennsylvania was made by the General Assembly in 1911, when it enacted into law what is commonly known as the school code. This body of school laws was the first serious effort to bring together and modernize the many and varied laws that had accumulated on the statute books from the passage of the Free School act of 1834 to the year 1911. At the time of adoption it was regarded as one of the most advanced and progressive pieces of educational legislation in the nation.

MANY CHANGES

The 20 years intervening between the code of 1911 and the present time have witnessed many changes in the social, economic and educational life of the commonwealth. These varied changes have brought about an increasing number of problems in connection with the administration of the present school system. Amendment after amendment has been written into the basic law in an effort to extend its provisions to meet current conditions, until it has ceased to be the sound instrument it once was, school officials said. This has resulted in much confusion and uncertainty. It is accordingly the thought to recodify the present school code and to recommend such changes as will be in harmony with modern standards of school administration.

Spanish Government Faces New Crisis

MADRID, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—President Niceto Alcala Zamora's attempt to resign was regarded as presaging the most critical period for the provisional government in view of the impending debate over religious clauses in the constitution. He submitted his resignation to the National Assembly last night on the grounds that he lacked the confidence of socialist and radical socialists deputies, but withdrew it when party leaders prevailed on him to remain until the constitution was further advanced.

ALL IN A DAY By Mark Hellinger

SOME WEEKS BACK a cashier in one of the local night clubs became dangerously ill. He was carted to a hospital, where a number of medicos immediately went into consultation. A day passed, and the doctors agreed that a blood transfusion was the only thing that would save the man's life. Accordingly, the proprietor of the club was called up on the phone and notified immediately.

The boss, a happy-go-lucky guy who has always been willing to gain a dollar in the easiest fashion, called four or five of his henchmen and told them about the situation.

"Poor Joe is worse off than we thought," he asserted. "He must have a blood transfusion right away. Chase down to the hospital right away and see what you can do. I'll meet you there myself."

The henchmen couldn't have been such choice specimens because, after examinations, the doctors couldn't see that their blood would save the man's life. After an hour's deliberation, the medicos came to the conclusion that the proprietor was the man who should submit to the transfusion.

"Even if he does get some of your blood," they told him, "we are not sure that we can save his life. But it's his one fighting chance. Will you give it to him?"

The boss grinned and took off his coat.

"Are you asking me?" was his characteristic reply. "Let's go."...

The cashier pulled through. Within three weeks he was ready to return to work. But the proprietor wasn't so sure.

"I don't want you to come back, Joe," he stated, "unless you're certain that you're okay. No use taking any chances after we pulled you through this far."

Joe shook his head.

"That's swell of you, boss," he returned, "but I'm not going to hold out on you any longer. I'm pretty sure I'm strong enough to return to the job—and that's what I'm going to do. Will tomorrow night be okay?"

The proprietor shrugged his shoulders.

"Whatever you say, Joe," he murmured. . . .

On the third night of Joe's return the boss received a terrific shock. There had been a little shortage from the register on each of the two previous nights and, much as he hated to do it, one of the mob had been placed in the rear to watch the cashier. The watcher had seen Joe slip some money into his own pocket. And, sure enough, the drawer was $50 light when it came to the count-up.

The proprietor called the cashier into his private office and questioned him. The latter man immediately admitted the theft. In an ordinary case the cashier would have been beaten to a pulp and tossed into the street. But the boss really liked this man and he was at a loss to understand the whys and wherefores.

"You say you took the money, Joe," he muttered, "but I wish you'd tell me why. Could anyone have been squarer with you than I have? Didn't I go to the hospital for your blood transfusion? Didn't I hold that job for you? Haven't I done everything a man could do?

"And now I catch you stealing from me. Why, Joe?"

Joe could have told the truth and admitted the horses had ruined him. But an idea came to him suddenly.

"There's only one answer, boss," he asserted apologetically. "I guess I got so much of your blood in me now that I just couldn't help stealing!" . . .

TWO EXPLORERS, reports David Murray, were talking things over.

"Glad to see you, Harry," said the first. "How did you make out on your last trip?"

"Swell," enthused the second explorer. "I discovered an uncivilized tribe of African bushmen who haven't been in a rotogravure section for three years!" . . .

"MR. JONES," writes Leonard Lyons, "is an unsung New Yorker—but his melody lingers on. In fact, it's a matter of public record—the queer tale of this inventive genius whose mechanical proclivities have astounded the Edisons and Steinmetzs of our day. He was born with a silver machine in his mouth and has been biting on intricate problems ever since.

"From early infancy he has devoted himself to the one thing he has always loved—his workshop. Social activities, dances, teas and automobile drives were not for him. The machination of industry heaped high his financial returns, but his zealous application to mechanics never waned.

"A few weeks ago, Mr. Jones ceased his unrelenting labors for a few moments and purchased a car. He had no intention of breaking out in a social splurge. Far from it. He felt that the automobile would help him save time—and consequently give him more opportunity to go on with his mechanics. For a week he devoted himself religiously to the task of driving the automobile. And a few days later he took his driver's test.

"He failed!" . . .

BARNEY GALLANT, the highly civilized night club owner who reopens his cafe tomorrow night, has a good memory for bad stories. The other evening, for instance, he recalled the yarn of the small time actor who was forced to lay off for a day or two in a small Ohio town.

The ham walked the main street until he was a trifle dizzy. After he had strolled up and down some 50 times without encountering anything more exciting than a stray cat he turned into the village drug store.

"Say, buddy," said the actor, "will you oblige me with a pint of whisky?"

The druggist looked startled.

"My dear man," he remonstrated, "don't you know that we are only permitted to sell liquor for medicinal purposes?"

"That's what I want it for," replied the actor agreeably. "This town has given me a terrible pain." . . .

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Broadcasters continue their curious practice of crowding their way to the lips of the newest hero of the day. Such pushing, such frenzy to record the words from the hero's lips!

The anxiety to catch the startling voice of the great one, is, of course, understandable. What isn't so easy to comprehend is their inability to get together and decide which one of them is to enjoy the distinction of conveying the voice to the parlors.

There ought to be some such huddle for the good of the radio parade to say nothing of the good will of the radio audience. Certainly it doesn't seem sensible that four or five and sometimes six stations should abandon their regular entertainments in a mad effort to train their microphones on the front steps of the City Hall. If arbitration is good for nations it should also be good for broadcasters.

What's the good of gargling if bad breath still stays bad?

We've made a breath taking discovery for taking away bad breath (halitosis*)

Don't waste dollars on antiseptics that must be used full strength. This new discovery, even when diluted with two parts of water, kills germs in 10 seconds

THREE people in four add water to their mouth wash. They don't know that most antiseptics lose germ-killing power unless used full strength. That's why we say: Stop fooling yourself with weak antiseptics.

If you want to check bad breath due to unhygienic mouth conditions, you must destroy the germs that cause it—especially those present in fermenting food particles, ordinary mouth irritations, coated tongue. Do not depend on covering up breath odors with the odor of a mouth wash.

A radical new antiseptic discovery

Modern research laboratories have thrown away the old ideas on killing germs.

Now there's a revolutionary antiseptic on the market—Pepsodent Antiseptic. Its formula is a radical advance. It climaxes the best antiseptic study of 50 years. A germ-killing agent is employed unlike those now in use. It makes Pepsodent Antiseptic from 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics, depending on which one you use.

Kills germs in 10 seconds

That is the startling news in this new discovery. Think! You can mix Pepsodent Antiseptic with one or even two parts of water, to suit your taste, and it still kills germs in less than 10 seconds. That's where most other leading mouth antiseptics fail. Yet in spite of all that power, Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe when used full strength. What a weapon this new antiseptic is in the fight against bad breath.

COLDS, SORE THROATS

Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when fighting bad breath. For at the same time it combats colds and throat irritations. Remember P.A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics . . . and it kills germs when diluted.

New security against bad breath (Halitosis*)

Bad breath checked 1 to 2 hours longer! That's Pepsodent Antiseptic's record in fighting this widespread social offense due to unhygienic mouth conditions. Immediately after use—95% of germs on mouth surfaces are destroyed. Two hours later the number of germs remains reduced by 75%. That is far longer acting than other leading mouth antiseptics. And please remember when you use Pepsodent Antiseptic for bad breath you are doing double duty by also fighting colds.

$3 worth for $1

To kill germs—most mouth antiseptics must be used full strength. So to mix them with water is a waste of time.

Pepsodent Antiseptic can be mixed with twice its own volume of water. That means every $1 bottle does what 3 bottles of other mouth antiseptics do. Goes 3 times as far—you get $3 worth for $1 . . . a saving of $2.

Checking bad breath and combating colds are only two uses for this remarkable antiseptic. There are scores of other uses. Some are listed on this page. Learn to rely on Pepsodent Antiseptic whenever a safe, effective germ-killing agent is required. Keep it in the home. Take it with you traveling.

Again we say: Quit being good to germs. They've laughed at you long enough. Play safe. Buy an antiseptic that really kills germs when diluted. Remember: You can fool yourself but you can't fool bad breath.

Some of the 50 different uses for this modern antiseptic

Cold in Head
Throat Irritations
Voice Hoarseness
Bad Breath
Cold Sores
Canker Sores
Mouth Irritations
After Extractions
After Shaving
Minor Cuts

Earnshaw Stands Out. • Service Game Popular.

Reds May Get Wilson. Salvation Army Work.

GIVES BUT FOUR RUNS IN 42 INNINGS

IN THE WORLD series of 1929 against the Cubs, George Earnshaw wasn't so hot. He was knocked off the hill in the second game, though receiving credit for a victory, and in the third event of the string he was beaten by Guy Bush. But in the title competition of 1930-31 with the Cardinals he has placed to his credit a chain of performances so brilliant as to make him one of the outstanding pitching figures of derby history. His two-hit shutout yesterday added a feature chapter to a remarkable record.

George Earnshaw

The fact that he has won three games out of four from St. Louis in two years doesn't tell the whole story of Earnshaw's effectiveness. He has taken part in five contests in that period, working a total of 42 innings, and in that stretch, representing almost five full games, he has permitted the Redbirds to score only four runs all told, and has held them to 21 hits for a club batting average of just .144. In the present series he has allowed only two runs and eight hits in two games and has not been scored on in his last 10 innings.

DURING THE 42 innings in which they have faced Earnshaw in two series the Cards have never been able to score on him twice in one round. The four runs made off him have been put over singly, never more than one to an inning, and in only one contest out of five, the second of the present set in which Bill Hallahan beat the A's 2 to 0, did the Missourians make more than one run in a whole game.

Mack's big right-hander has pitched 38 scoreless innings out of his total of 42, and has been scored on in only three of the last 40 frames. At one stretch last year he went through 22 consecutive frames without allowing a run. In none of his five games did he allow more than six hits, and twice he gave only two, but in one of the latter performances he worked only seven innings.

SO IT WOULD appear that while Lefty Grove has been the greater pitcher of the famed Mackmen duo during the regular season, Earnshaw is a superior money hurler and the real trump card of the A's in world series battling.

The pitching of two two-hit games in succession by Burleigh Grimes and Earnshaw did not establish a series record. Three games of that kind were pitched in a row in the classic of 1906 between the Cubs and White Sox. Ed Reulbach started it on October 10 and was followed by Ed Walsh and Three-Finger Brown the next two days.

HAVING KEPT UP his part as the star regular of the post-season show by making both of the hits to which Earnshaw limited the Cards in the fourth game, besides stealing another base, Pepper Martin today faced a chance to break four series records in the remaining contests. With nine hits in 14 times at bat for an average of .643, he has already broken Babe Ruth's record average of .625 for four games, made in 1928. If he can keep up his pace he will beat Ruth's .625 as the record for a whole series. With nine hits to his credit Martin needs only four more to pass the mark for hits in a series, which was set at 12 by Buck Herzog in 1912 and equaled by Joe Jackson in 1919 and by Sam Rice in 1925. And having stolen four bases, Pepper was only two behind the record, which Shorty Slagle set at six while playing for the Cubs against the Tigers in 1907. Pepper needs only one more two-bagger to equal and two more to beat the series record for doubles which Chick Hafey set at five last year.

Hack Wilson

THAT CINCINNATI MAY be the club to get Hack Wilson is the tip that comes from the world series front. Dan Howley had a 35-minute telephone talk with Rogers Hornsby, who was in Chicago losing the decision to Donie Bush in the city series four games to three, and the sole subject of their conversation was Wilson.

Howley admitted later that he is seeking the Martinsburg mauler. "I haven't got a man on my club who can knock anybody's hat off with a cane," Dan said, "and this Wilson can sock. Therefore I want him, and Mr. Weil is prepared to make an offer for him that, I believe, will top any that anybody else will make."

ART SHIRES may come back to the majors after all. The Boston Braves must replace Earl Sheely next year, and Bill McKechnie and Judge Fuchs are being urged to buy the Milwaukee first baseman instead of carrying out their reported plan to try Walter Berger at the initial sack.

When the White Sox beat them to their first draft choice, Infielder Carey Selph of Houston, the Boston bosses figured on drafting Shires, but that was blocked when the Reds selected Catcher Clyde Manion from Milwaukee. The purchase of Shires is now being considered, and the Hub chiefs may go through with it soon if the price isn't too high.

FIRSTLY, OF COURSE, because it will realize a huge sum for the unemployed, but also because it will spur football interest and help the sport in general, gridiron fans everywhere welcomed the news that the Army and Navy had agreed to meet again this year in a charity game, probably on December 12. A battle between the service elevens always gives football added color and boosts the game as a whole.

INCIDENTALLY, THOUGH THIS adds another game to be attended by the two academies this fall, and the number of trips they are permitted to make annually is limited, it will not interfere with the coming of the West Point Cadets to Pittsburgh on November 14 for the struggle between Pitt and the Army at the Stadium.

W. Don Harrison, director of athletics at Pitt, gave this assurance today when asked if the charity game would affect plans for the appearance here of the cadet body. The entire corps will come to Pittsburgh with the team, he said, and a representative of the military academy is to be here next Monday to complete arrangements for the local end of the trip.

A MOST SUCCESSFUL first year is reported for the swimming pool and gymnasium which the Salvation Army opened just one year ago in the large addition to the main building at 425 Boulevard of the Allies. The pool has been used by 29,200 men, women and children; 142 children have been taught to swim, and several hundreds of persons have been given lessons in first-aid.

Hundreds of youths and adults have availed themselves of the splendid gymnasium facilities. During the year 376 basketball games were played with a total attendance of 37,600. Most of those enjoying these new features of the Salvation Army's service to the people of Allegheny County pay nothing. A slight fee is paid by a small number if able to do so.

W. E. Chamberlain

MUSHBALL, BASKETBALL AND volleyball teams, classes in calisthenics, as well as classes in lifesaving and police department instruction are being organized for the fall and winter seasons. A feature will be the organization of a basketball team composed exclusively of Salvation Army lassies. Capt. and Mrs. William E. Chamberlain are the physical directors of the Salvation Army in Pittsburgh. They are young, energetic, ambitious and confident. Both are graduates of the Salvation Army College in New York, and before coming to Pittsburgh were stationed at Saratoga Springs, Brooklyn and Columbus.

CLIFF BATTLES BIG THREAT FOR DUKES

By JESS CARVER

While on the subject of fullbacks if we were there will be a pretty nifty performer showing off here in the Stadium Saturday afternoon when Greasy Neale and his West Virginians pay their visit. The gent to whom I refer is Leo Dotson, called Joe for no reason at all for the name Leo, meaning "lion" in good old Latin or Greek, I forgot which, is far more befitting the Mountaineer star.

Dotson handled himself quite capably last year against Pitt, when the Panthers were in Morgantown. He isn't overly large, as fullbacks go, but he is fast and hits hard and quick, bustin' through there while the hole still is opening and not after it has begun to close again.

Leo is much the type of Jimmy Clark. He isn't any faster and he doesn't hit any better, but he is the sort of a lad likely to give any sort of opposition trouble. On the defense, they let him back up the line, which he does okie-okie.

FITS INTO TEAM

Fitting into the Neale backfield, along with Willie Parriott, Capt. Johnny Doyle and Jake Sebulsky, who are fast and good blockers, he'll give the Pitt line some anxious moments.

Just as the Panthers must look out for Dotson, so must the Dukes be on the alert for another West Virginia state luminary, the big Cliff Battles from Wesleyan, when they, the local Irish and Bobcats meet here Friday night. So much has been written about the giant Clifford that it might be well to dash off a line or two about his supporting cast.

Well, the Bobcats are supposed to be better balanced than they were a year ago. Art Bachtel hasn't been injured as yet and he's slated to go at right half, to help clear the way for Battles. Beveridge, a big chap, who never before has been in good physical trim, what with injuries and too much heft, has whittled off some 20 pounds and will face the Dukes weighing about 180, good playing weight.

These two will be called upon to give Battles most of his aid.

On the line, Coach Ross has a crackerjack guard in Capt. Red Crites and a nice big tackle, with some experience, in Sanders, who made his letter at Wesleyan two years ago and was out of school last fall. These lads are the ones Layden may count on for trouble Friday.

The Tipoff

Rob Waddell gave his Tartan squad a stiff workout yesterday. He drilling on offense, polishing up a few plays he hopes will come as distinct shocks to the Georgia Tech Engineers at Atlanta on Saturday. The earnest Tartan mentor also spent some time in checking over the work of his linemen.

Prior to the call for scrimmage Waddell had the new shirts and togs issued. Big Tom Fletcher appeared garbed in a pair of trousers and undershirt and nearly shinguards.

"What the heck are you wearing those shinguards for when you're only going to run signals," Maxie Hannum asked.

"The heat must have you.

"Say, if you had to run signals beside this guy Sample . . . Don came back. 'you'd wear armor. He kicks my shins to pieces all the time. I never get 'em hurt in the ball game."

The forthcoming Notre Dame-North western game has the boys talking, but nothing is changing the early line of Pitt by eight. It is Notre Dame's first big test. A year ago the Irish won in the closing minutes of the game after they'd been generally outplayed all afternoon, and after the Purple had had three or four chances to score on fumbles.

This year I think the Big Ten entry should be at least an even choice. Regardless of how hard the boys are going to fight in the memory of Rockne they are going to find this Northwestern team tougher than it was a year ago, stronger in the backfield and generally faster. Bob Russell is a great fullback, make no mistake about that, and Peg Kentner is as good a forward passer as there is in the country. Behind the heavy and well drilled Hanley line, they'll be poison for the Irish.

SHOOT TOMORROW

The Western Pennsylvania Trapshooting League will hold a post-season shoot tomorrow at the Wilkinsburg Gun Club.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE MAN WITHOUT A SKULL—Douglas Ellis had the harrowing experience of having been officially pronounced dead after a terrific electric shock, but he was revived and today he has completely recovered. He now lives at 8 Strachan avenue, Cleveland. On May 28, 1926, while Ellis was working at the Eugenia power house of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Company, his head came in contact with a 22,000-volt line while he was standing on a grounded pipe structure. Artificial respiration revived him, but his injuries were so serious that he spent almost two years in a hospital. During these two years he had more than 60 square inches of his skull removed. Ellis now wears a Bakelite "skull-cap" to prevent any injury to his head.

SERIES INTAKE SUFFERS SLUMP

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7 (AP)—The 1931 world series player pool, derived from a 60 per portion of the gate receipts, the first four games and [illegible] 303.46. This is the [illegible] in nine years and nearly $160,000 below the record pool of $419,736.60, split by the Yankees, Cardinals and other first division clubs in 1928.

The total pool, 70 per cent or $224,212.42, goes to the Athletics and Cardinals, divided on a basis of 60 per cent to the winners and 40 per cent to the losers. The winners' end amounts to $134,527.45 and losers' total $89,684.96.

The Cardinals have decided to split their end into 30 full shares. If they capture the series, this will mean $4,484.24 per share. On the same basis, a losing share would amount to $2,989.49.

The A's have not yet decided into how many shares they will split their end of the money. Cut down to a basis of 25 shares, the winners split would amount to $5,381.09 per share and the losers', $3,587.39.

The second, third and fourth place clubs in each league split an aggregate of $96,091.03. It will be apportioned as follows: $24,022.75 to each of the second place outfits, New York Giants and New York Yankees; $16,015.17 to each third place team, Chicago Cubs and Washington Senators; $8,007.58 to each fourth place club, Brooklyn Robins and Cleveland Indians.

SCOREBOARD HOLDS FANS

Daily the crowds watching the world series being played on the magnetic scoreboard of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph are increasing.

Yesterday's turnout in front of the large gamegraph in Grant street at Strawberry way, was the largest since the series opened, and now, with the teams on an even footing again and beginning all over from scratch, interest is at its keenest point.

There is plenty of room for the thousands of eager fans in front of the board. If you haven't "seen" a game played on the board, come today.

TWO GRID TILTS CARDED SUNDAY

By TOM BIRKS

Only two games will be played in the Western Pennsylvania Independent Grid Conference this week, but they are likely to be played before capacity crowds.

Dan Burns, flushed with victory over the East Pittsburgh Firemen, tangle with the McKeesport Olympics at Olympic Park Sunday.

The other game, at West View Sunday, will be a grudge battle. Verbal clashes marked the Rooney practice session the other evening when some of the West View stars ridiculed the Rooneys going through a workout.

Kelleher, Lippman and Pat Scanlon have left the Rooney ranks for West View, while Kelly quit West View and joined Art Rooney.

Whether Rooney intends to play Karcis has not been decided. Manager Boyer went through with the former Carnegie Tech man's release when they failed to agree on terms.

McChesneytown, former Conference member, plays the Comer All-Stars in Charleroi tonight.

HOCKEY LEAGUE SALARIES CUT

By CARL W. SHATTO

The International Hockey League, at its 12-hour meeting in the Hotel Schenley yesterday, voted to cut salaries this winter because of the economic depression. The amount of the slash was left up to President Charles S. King.

A schedule for the coming season was adopted, but will not be made public until Saturday. Meanwhile some revision is anticipated.

GEORGIA WORKS FOR TARTANS

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 7.—Out of the defeat of South Carolina by the undersized, but high-powered Georgia Tech football team, Saturday, developed the first definite organization of the Yellow Jacket squad into three teams.

Coach W. A. Alexander sent 31 men into action against the Gamecock and watched them closely under fire. Judging from the first two days' preparations for Carnegie Tech's invasion Saturday, the squad has been sifted into three groups plus a few spare parts.

AMBRIDGE, MONESSEN RECORDS IN JEOPARDY

UNBEATEN GRID TEAMS MEET FRIDAY

By JULIUS LEVIN

Ambridge and Monessen will stake all their hopes for the W. P. I. A. L. football championship on the outcome of their battle next Friday night in Monessen. The contest brings together two undefeated elevens, each of whom has copped three straight victories so far this season.

The Ambridge record is all the more remarkable because Moe Rubenstein's gridders boast a string of 15 consecutive games in which they have not suffered a setback. The Ambridge eleven hasn't been scored on during that space of time.

Coach Ditty's Monessen eleven likewise boasts an enviable record. Monessen started its campaign by defeating Belle Vernon, 31-0. Redstone was the next victim, 19-6, and Canonsburg was the third, bowing 24-0.

Ambridge defeated Monaca, 6-0; Rochester, 19-0, and Weirton, W. Va., 6-0.

CHARLEROI IN TEST

Coach Steve Stephanian's Charleroi High School team also faces a tough test Friday night in Fayette City at Charleroi. Like the Monessen affair, this contest brings together two undefeated elevens. Charleroi defeated Ellsworth-Cokeburg, 70-0; Scott, of North Braddock, 32-0, and New Castle, 14-6. Fayette City boasts a 26-0 victory over Morris Township, a 12-0 triumph over Point Marion and a 13-7 decision over Fairchance.

Idle last week, due to an open date on the schedule, Coach Hank Day's Washington High Little Presidents tackle their toughest test of the season at New Castle Friday night when they meet Coach Bridenbaugh's Night Owls. So far this season Washington has scored a 34-0 victory over Waynesburg and a 54-6 triumph over Aliquippa. The fact that New Castle's chances for the title were ruined by Charleroi has not detracted in the least from the interest shown in the contest.

School Notes

Despite the fact that his Crafton High eleven has not scored a victory in three starts, Jesse Montgomery, fleet-footed halfback of Coach Martin Westrock's second stanza, will start with the best ball carriers in the district. This boy is hard to stop once he gets started. He has been off a number of large gains this year.

Coach George Woodman's Clairton High eleven is hard at work for its battle with Scott High of North Braddock at Clairton next Saturday. Woodman's eleven is making a determined fight for the W. P. I. A. L. crown, and it realizes that Scott must be "taken care" to stay in the running. The game should attract a bumper crowd to Clairton, as it brings together two old rivals.

Ralph Ferguson and Tony Phillips, two of the mainstays of Johnny Reed's Scott eleven, are nursing their injuries in an effort to get into shape for the important battle with Clairton. Two others who will bear watching in this contest are Coley McDonough, Scott fullback, and Karpinsan at halfback.

Midland, Beaver Falls, Ambridge and Beaver are setting a torrid pace in the fight for the Beaver Valley school championship. All four boast clean slates, the first three with three victories and no defeats, while Beaver shows two victories and no defeats.

Beaver Falls High will face its first big test of the season on October 17 when Midland is played at Midland. Midland is one of the best teams in the valley this year.

Elmer Carroll's Wilkinsburg High eleven is in for a busy afternoon next Saturday when Westinghouse is its opponent at Graham Field. Wilkinsburg will be striving for its fourth straight victory, having beaten Crafton, 31-0; Swissvale, 46-6, and East Huntingdon, 6-0. Wilkinsburg will have to show a decided improvement over last week's form if it hopes to add Coach Burton's charges to its list of victims. No one realizes this fact more than Elmer Carroll.

Perry High School makes it official how great Friday by engaging Jimmy Roberson's Shady Side eleven at Fox Chapel. The home team defeated St. Mary's last Friday.

Four City League games will be played Friday afternoon. South plays at Schenley and Allderdice at Peabody in Section 1 games, while in Section II South Hills is at Langley and Oliver at Carrick. Fifth Avenue will enjoy a day of rest.

Two undefeated teams will clash at Monongahela Friday when Coach Bill Campbell sends his Homestead machine against Coach McMillan's Monongahela eleven. Homestead has beaten Carnegie and Swissvale each by 13-0 scores, while Monongahela defeated Masontown 14-0 and Carrick, 19-0.

Nuss Named Alley Owners' President

Earl Nuss, of Homestead, was elected president of the Greater Pittsburgh Alley Owners' Association at the annual meeting of the organization at the Fort Pitt Hotel yesterday afternoon.

Franklin West, of Squirrel Hill, was elected vice president, and Edwin J. Wuerthele, also of Squirrel Hill, was chosen to serve in the dual capacity of secretary and treasurer.

RANGERS, CELTICS TIE

GLASGOW, Scotland, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—The Rangers and Celtics played to a 2-2 all tie in their semi-final match of the Glasgow cup yesterday. The replay was set for today.

Jones Said to Seek Return to Amateurs

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The respite afforded amateur golfers by the retirement of Bobby Jones from the simon pure ranks is to be short lived, according to a report widely circulated in eastern golfing circles. This report has it that the Atlanta wizard has made application to the United States Golf Association for reinstatement as an amateur, but with no admission to this forthcoming, of course, from the United States Golf Association itself. Bobby nimself, in Atlanta last night, branded the report "the bunk."

SERVICE GAME ASSURED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—The echo of clinking dollars for the unemployed stirred by the charging football teams of Annapolis and West Point again will be heard this year.

The two service teams have agreed to meet, probably December 12, with all receipts going to alleviate distress of the jobless. Either New York, Philadelphia or Chicago will get the game, with the New York Polo Grounds holding the most votes now.

Army and Navy officials, who were asked for the benefit performance by the Salvation Army, agreed to it yesterday. The Salvation Army sponsored last year's contest in New York which netted $400,000 for the unemployed and a 6-to-0 victory for Army.

RED-ORANGE GAME OFF

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—Livingston Farrand, president of Cornell University, today denied that Cornell and Syracuse, who have not clashed in 27 years, would meet in a charity game. Alexis N. Muench, of the Syracuse Chamber of Commerce, suggested the move. Dr. Farrand wrote him the schedule of the Cornell team already was full.

Better Than Ever!

--- THAT'S THE DIFFERENCE

The Marsh reputation for quality---ninety-one years in the making ---has been built on one thing alone---TASTE. That taste is UNCHANGED. The same fine tobacco---the same painstaking processes responsible for the unrivaled MARSH flavor, are unchanged today. But, until recently, Marsh stogies, like other stogies, were lacking in three qualities which discriminating smokers demand---uniformity, cleanliness and appearance.

That is why Marsh is using modern automatic machinery. The Marsh factory NEVER was a dirty, dingy, spitoon-infested shop, but until American ingenuity developed marvelous machinery, it did rely on hand labor to make stogies. At best, such stogies lack uniformity, appearance, and leave much to be desired in the matter of cleanliness.

Now, at last, ALL DESIRABLE QUALITIES ARE COMBINED and MARSH offers you the same UNCHANGED distinctive flavor, PLUS absolute uniformity, PLUS scrupulous cleanliness, PLUS vastly improved appearance. Marsh stogies, always good, are NOW BETTER THAN EVER---That's the difference!

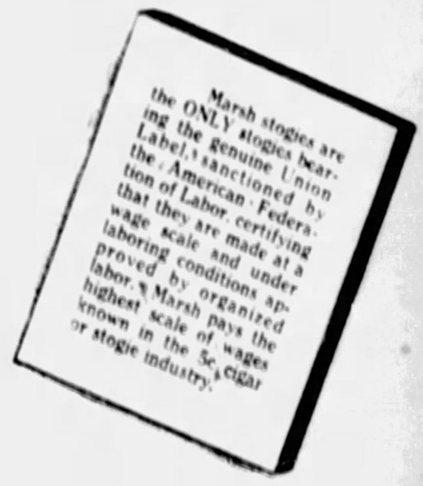
DISCRIMINATING SMOKERS BUY OVER A MILLION A WEEK.

You have a right to insist on Marsh. As other brands offer greater profits, some dealers will try to "switch you" to inferior cigars or stogies. But NO SUBSTITUTE can offer greater value to you --the consumer. In Marsh--and in Marsh only--your nickel buys the finest of tobaccos---absolute cleanliness---certain uniformity---the ultimate in smoking satisfaction.

Identify Marsh stogies by the distinctive gold and blue band. Every reliable dealer displays them on his counter. Beware of imitations and substitutions. Insist on genuine Marsh Stogies.



Marsh stogies are the ONLY stogies bearing the genuine Union Label, sanctioned by the American Federation of Labor, certifying that they are made at a wage scale and under laboring conditions approved by organized labor. Marsh pays the highest scale of wages known in the 5¢ cigar or stogie industry.

ROCHESTER OUT TO COP TODAY

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 7 (AP.)—Winning 4 to 3 in the fifth game of the little world series here yesterday, the Rochester Red Wings took an apparently impregnable lead over their American Association rivals, the St. Paul Saints.

It was the fourth straight victory for Manager Billy Southworth's charges. They need only one more win to end the series.

Fifteen bases on balls were issued by the combined mound men, nine by the three St. Paul hurlers, Murphy, Prudhomme and Vanatta. Buck Foreman, who finished for Rochester after the veteran Carmen Hill was removed in the second inning, gave five walks and was unsteady otherwise, but managed to stagger through to be credited with the victory.

The sixth game is to be played here today.

SOX WIN CITY SERIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 7 (AP.)—Donie Bush's White Sox cellar dwellers of the 1931 American League race, are the baseball champions of Chicago.

Salvaging their only hope of one of the most disappointing campaigns in years the Bushmen won the city championship yesterday by crushing the Cubs 7 to 2 in the seventh and final game of their annual battle. It was their first victory in the series since 1926.

Thomas went the route for the Sox and allowed only four hits. Smith started on the mound for the Cubs and was succeeded by May. Sweetland and Malone. The Cubs scored only in the first and eighth innings, while the Sox tied the count in the second and put the game on ice with six runs in the fourth.

The victory was the eleventh in 18 series for the White Sox. The Cubs have won six, while one was tied.

GOOD RECORD BOASTED BY SILVERBERG

By HARRY KICK

Sports Editor

When you get to thinking about it, Jack Silverberg of New York, who boxes Jimmy Thomas, Negro bantamweight of the Hill, in the 10-round main bout at Jim McGirr's Monday night, is quite a guy.

He's been in there with three world champions, Miguel Wolgast, Al Brown and Kid Chocolate, and also has boxed Nel Tarleton, Pete Sarron, Archie Bell, Jack Colbert, Johnny Erickson, Willie LaMotte, Buck Bill, Dark Cloud Bradley, Frankie Bauman, Fisco Grande and sundry others from flyweights up to featherweights.

He's fought in Australia and Cuba, in addition to the United States, and while away engaged in some ... battle. He is not a ... specimen such as Lou Paluso, who was fed to the lions from Jake Frankie Botarsk at Motor Square Garden Monday night, and with Thomas himself making rapid strides, this battle figures to help the fans get their money's worth of that kind.

Thomas wings up his hard training today at the Negro Y. M. C. A. where he has been drilling daily with Sammy Burns and Jackie Wilson. He is anxious to win over Silverberg for the reason that such a victory will open the door to bouts in the East where Pinkie is a good card. Little Jimmy's record is a proud one for the short time he has been before the public. It includes battles with Ollie Bartlett, Benny Schwartz, Willie Davies, Baby Face Matheson, Archie Bell and Vidal Garrison. The only fellows to take his measure recently have been Bell and Gregorio, two top-flight ... and he fought Gregorio at the Meyers Bowl on a day's notice.

Between Rounds

Bronco McArthur took a fastball from Freddie Fitzgerald when the latter came in considerable overweight for their bout in Wheeling Monday night. Fitzgerald got the decision, but the bout was close and the crash is figuring on bringing back Bronco with Battling Gans for the most show value in the way will be one of the principals in the main bout at McKeesport next week.

Tommy Grigsby's bout with Kid Chocolate at Holyoke, Mass., is set for Thursday instead of Friday night, as at first announced.

John Buck, Motor Square Garden matchmaker, today completed his card for his show next Monday night. He has Moe Rubin and Johnny Datto in the 10-round windup, Joey Wright of Uniontown and Billy Hall of Monessen in the eight-round semi-final, Joey Reppone of McKeesport and Mussie Scholes of the North Side in the ground bout, and Teddy Mancuso of Connellsville postage of Johnny Ray and Bobby Rowe, of the East End, in the opener.

MOST OF EARLY STOCK GAINS WIPED OUT

Share Prices Recede, but New Note of Confidence Remains in Wall Street

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Feverish buying in the stock market subsided today, and prices sagged under profit taking sales, but a new note of confidence remained in financial quarters.

President Hoover's plan of restoring economic stability was widely praised in Wall street and bankers felt that it had checked unreasonable panicky leaving the way clear for a sane approach to the problems of depression.

The foreign markets as well as New York responded to the plan with advancing prices. Stocks in the local market fell back after an early upturn, however, although the bond market maintained a firm undertone.

There were hundreds advances of 1 to 7 points in the early trading, but most of the advance was lost by early afternoon. Steels failed to follow the early upturn and United States Steel and Bethlehem finally sold down about 2 points from yesterday's closing levels. Similar losses appeared in American Telephone, Westinghouse Electric, du Pont and Allied Chemical. The Liggett and Myers and American Tobacco shares sold up 5 to 8 points and retained about half their gains. In the rails early gains of 2 to 3 points in Santa Fe and New York Central were replaced by small losses. General Electric, lone of them bright part of the list.

The mid-week business statistics again attested the low state of trade and directed attention to the magnitude of the task of restoring corporate earning power. The Iron Age weekly review of the steel trade said that ingot production had slipped back from 31 to 29 per cent, but it expected that the belated start of new model making by the automobile companies would provide considerable new business within a few weeks. The freight car loadings report for the week ended September 26 showed a decline of about 4,600 cars from the previous week. A small gain is normal for the period.

Nevertheless, bankers pointed out that aggressive and practicable measures to relieve points of stress in the economic structure should go far toward facilitating recovery. Brokers said the quieting down of the stock market was distinctly encouraging.

It was widely predicted that the formation of the $500,000,000 credit corporation would have a distinctly salutary effect upon the bond market, which has been extremely slow to feel the liquidation.

Sale of Bridge and Tunnel to Help P. & W. Va.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

APPROVAL OF THE SALE of the terminal properties of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company to Allegheny County by the Interstate Commerce Commission indicates that the road's current financial position will be greatly improved within a short time. The transaction will come at an advantageous time for the railroad since business has slumped sharply and the company is burdened with new funded and short term indebtedness undertaken to finance the Connellsville extension.

Under the agreement with the county, the railroad will be paid $3,000,000 for its bridge over the Monongahela River and the tunnel to the south of the river. The county will convert these into a highway. The railroad will abandon its downtown terminal and will build a new freight terminal on the South Side. Original plans call for the expenditure of nearly $1,000,000 for the new terminal.

The payment to the railroad will make it possible to liquidate a large share of the short term indebtedness of the line and will defer the need for additional long term financing.

Deficit Reported for August

A NET LOSS OF $37,486 was reported after all charges for August. This compared with net income of $160,495 in August, 1930. For the first eight months of 1931 net income was $141,607 after all charges and was equivalent to 47 cents a share on 302,351 shares of stock. This compared with net income of $1,089,148 or $3.60 a share in the first eight months of the preceding year.

A combination of factors has been responsible for the sharp decline in earnings this year. The general business depression has materially reduced traffic. In the four weeks ended September 12 loadings amounted to 7,963 cars, which was 22.5 per cent under the corresponding period of last year.

The bulk of the road's traffic consists of coal. Early in the summer strikes resulted in an almost complete shutdown of mines along the line. Since that time labor troubles have ceased to be an important factor, but production has remained at a low rate.

Extension Completed

THE PITTSBURGH AND WEST Virginia early this summer completed its 38-mile extension to Connellsville. This gave the line a connection with the Western Maryland and gave it access to several large steel mills. Under normal conditions the road would be developing new traffic from the use of this extension, but the depression in business has prevented the addition from contributing to loadings to any material extent.

To finance the extension, the road sold $12,000,000 of 4½ per cent bonds. Previous to July 1 interest on this was charged to construction expense, but since the completion of the new line interest has become a charge on earnings and has been an important contributing factor in the decline of net income. Pending the establishment of better conditions in the bond market the road has done short term financing amounting to over $4,000,000.

The abandonment of the terminal of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia will remove one of the last vestiges of the unsuccessful plan undertaken in 1904 by the Gould interests to build a transcontinental railroad around the Wabash. To provide this line with passenger facilities in Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh and West Virginia bridge and tunnel were built and costly passenger station facilities were provided. In recent years only a few trains a day have used the station, which has one of the most beautiful waiting rooms ever constructed.

THE ROAD BACK -:-

By Erich Maria Remarque

Ernst Fails to Appreciate Scenes of Childhood

CHAPTER XXIV.

"Ernst," my mother says, "I have been meaning to say this to you for some time: You have changed. You have become very restless."

Changed! I think bitterly, yes, I have changed!—what is it you know of me now, mother? A mere memory, nothing but the memory of a quiet, eager youth of the days that are gone. You must never know, mother, never know of these last years; never even wonder what they were like, and much less what has become of me. A hundreth part would break your heart—you, who tremble and are shocked by the impact of a mere word, one word that has been enough to shatter your picture of me. "Things will be better soon," I say rather helplessly, and try to comfort myself with that.

She sits down, beside me and strokes my hands. I take them away. She looks grieved. "You are quite stranse to me sometimes, Ernst," she says. "Then you have such a look that I hardly recognize you."

"I must get used to things first, mother," I say. "I still keep feeling as if I were here merely on a visit."

Twilight is gathering in the room. My dog comes in from the passage and lies down on the floor in front of me. His eyes shine as he looks up at me. He, too, is restless still; he has not settled down yet, either.

My mother leans back in her chair. "Just to think you have come back again, Ernst—"

"Yes, that's the main thing," I say and stand up.

She remains seated in her corner in the twilight; and with strange tenderness I see how all at once our roles have been interchanged. Now it is she who has become the child.

FEELS ALONE

I love her—when did I ever love her more than now? Now, that I know I may never come to her and sit beside her and tell her it all, and so perhaps regain peace. I have lost her. Suddenly I feel how alien and alone I really am. She has closed her eyes. "I'll get dressed now and go out for a bit," I whisper, so as not to disturb her. She nods. "Yes, my boy," says she—and after a while, softly—"my good boy."

It pierces me like a stab. Gently I pull the door to.

The meadows are wet and from the pathways and tracks the water runs gurgling. In the pocket of my greatcoat is a small pickle jar and I walk along the brook by the poplars. As a youngster I used to catch fish and butterflies here, and here I used to lie down under the trees and dream.

In spring time it would be full of water weeds and frog spawn. Bright green bushes of water weed flickered to and fro in the little, clear waves, long-legged skaters zig-zagged between the stalks of the sedge and shoals of tittlebacks in the sun cast their swift, slim shadows on the golden-spotted sand.

But now it is cold and damp. The poplars are bare, but a soft blue bloom is on them. One day they will be green again and rustling, and the sun will lie warm and blessed over this stretch of ground that holds so many memories of my childhood. And then I shall have forgotten the war and all will be again as it used to be.

I stamp my foot on the sloping edge of the bank. A couple of fish dart out from under it. At sight of them I can contain myself no longer. Where the stream narrows so that I can bestride it with my legs, I wait watching, and at last scoop up two tittlebacks in my hollowed hand. I drop them into my jar and examine them.

They dart to and fro, lovely and perfect with their three spines, their slender, brown bodies and quivering pectoral fins. The water is clear as crystal and spangles of light on the glass are reflected in it. Suddenly my breath is quite taken away, so piercingly do I see how beautiful it is, this water in the glass, the lights and the reflections.

I hold it carefully in my hand and wander farther; I carry it cautiously and look into it often, with beating heart, as if I had caught my childhood in it and now would take it back home with me. I squat on the edge of the pool where dense layers of duckweed are floating and see the blue marbled salamanders, like little mines, dangling vertical as they come up for air. Caddis-fly larvae creep slowly through the mud, a beetle paddles lazily along the bottom, and from under a decaying root the astonished eyes of a motionless pond frog look up at me. I see everything, and more is there even than can be seen—memory is there, and hopes and past happiness.

SUDDEN FEAR

Cautiously I take up my jar and go on, searching, hoping. The wind blows and the mountains lie blue along the skyline.

Suddenly a spasm of alarm sweeps over me. Down, man! Down! Under cover! You're in full view here!—crouch down in mad fear, I spread my arms, ready to sprit forward and take shelter behind a tree; I tremble and pant—Now I breathe again—It is over and I look around foolishly—No one has seen me. It is a moment before I am calm again. Then I make a dive for my pickle jar that has fallen out of my hand. The water is all spilled, but the little fish are still flapping about inside it. I stoop down to the stream and let fresh water pour in.

THINKS OF TRENCHES

I push on slowly, absorbed in my thoughts. The wood is nearer now. A cat stalks across the pathway. There the railway embankment cuts through the fields and is lost again in the thicket. One could build dug-outs there, I think to myself—good deep ones with concrete roofs—then extend the line of trench to the left, with cover saps and listening posts—and over there a few machine guns—no, two would be enough, the rest of the wood—then practically the whole terrain would be under cross fire. The poplars would have to come down, so as not to give the enemy artillery a point to register on—and behind there, on a hill, a couple of trench mortars — then let them come on!

A train whistles and I look up. What's this I am doing? I came here to recover the scene of my childhood and I am drawing a system of trenches across it! It has become a habit—terrain for attack and defense. The old mill on the top there is no mill, but a strong point—the wood is no wood, it is artillery cover—Such things will always creep in.

I shake the thought off and try to remember past times, but I do not succeed very well. And I no longer feel so happy as I did. I have no wish to go further. I turn back.

(To Be Continued Tomorrow).

LEARN A TRADE

We are now taking enrollments for the fall semester in our Young Ladies' Seminary for Human Flies. Learn this interesting, easy work, and always have pin money. The above picture shows one of our pupils napping in a cozy nook behind a flying buttress, while the instructor looks on prior to making out her report card. When she awakens they will have a merry scamper up and down the face of the building, helter and skelter, out to the end of the flag pole, and then home in time for a cozy evening curled up with the radio.

SUCCESS NO. 219367

This is Simeon Y. Erratic, former vaudeville entertainer, who has been starving to death for lack of engagements. Now he is well and happy, earning plenty of money. Mr. Erratic waits until there is a good crowd gathered to watch a steam shovel at work, whereupon he leaps into the excavation and goes into his dance. People hurl coins to get him out of the way so that nothing will interfere with their view of the steam shovel.

Another Difficulty

Other States Using Voting Machines May Tell Us How To Overcome Obstacles.

Since 11 parties have applied for places on the ballot and the voting machines provide for no more than nine party columns, there is a likelihood that Allegheny County will not be able to utilize the machines in the November election.

It may be too late to do anything to overcome the difficulty this year, but, looking to future elections, it behooves us to cast about for means to surmount the obstacle.

The most obvious procedure is to see what New York and other states which have been using voting machines for years have done about it.

It may be that remedial legislation will be necessary.

Simplification of the ballot has long been recognized as desirable. One reason why the Legislature abolished the boards of school visitors in Pittsburgh was to reduce the number of names appearing on the ballot.

Voting machines should give impetus to the ballot simplification movement. At the same time care will have to be taken not to do the voters or the candidates an injustice.

Pinchot's Silence

The Governor's Failure to Defend Certain Recent Appointments Is Disappointing.

Gov. Pinchot's failure to defend his recent appointment of Howard Neely and Alexander Cooper as officials of the Department of Justice is disappointing. It seems to justify the worst interpretation.

The appointments were criticized because the two men had been mentioned as among those who procured great numbers of poll tax receipts for use in the primary election.

Cooper denies that he procured a large number, and there is no reason to question his statement. To that extent, therefore, the criticism of his appointment was not warranted.

But it is not denied that Neely took out a large number and that among them was one for a man who had been dead for many years.

If Pinchot knew this, his appointment of Neely is inexcusable. The Governor's silence leaves the citizens free to draw their own inferences.

A Golden Opportunity

The Unemployed Can Make a Virtue of Necessity and Use Their Leisure for Study.

A golden opportunity is open to men unable to obtain employment. With unlimited leisure they have an opportunity to prepare themselves by study for more lucrative positions when times again become normal.

Dean R. L. Sackett, of Pennsylvania State College, reports that courses in electrical, mechanical, aeronautical, civil, textile and industrial engineering can be had at its branch schools at an average cost, inclusive of tuition, textbooks and instruments, of $32.12 a year. We mention these figures for the encouragement of persons who may think the expense is prohibitive.

Registration for night classes at Carnegie Institute of Technology is now under way. The University of Pittsburgh and Duquesne University also have night courses.

Ambitious youths will make a virtue of their enforced idleness by utilizing it for their future advancement.

It Has Teeth

The New Law Against Circulating False Rumors About Banks Is Being Enforced.

The law passed at the last session of the Legislature which makes it a penal offense to circulate false rumors about the solvency of banks was not an idle gesture.

The statement of the State Banking Commissioner that the law would be enforced was not an empty threat.

The law is being enforced, and has been proved to have teeth.

A truck driver in Chambersburg, for example, has been arrested and held for trial on the charge of violating it.

Self-respecting persons need no such law, however, to restrain them from injuring a bank's reputation. Their sense of decency and fairness is sufficient.

Our Living Standard

It Is High in Pittsburgh, and We Should Strive to Keep It High.

The Chamber of Commerce statistician finds, on analyzing United States Census figures on retail sales in the largest cities of the country, that Pittsburghers spend more per capita for food than the people of Chicago or Philadelphia or Detroit or Los Angeles or Cleveland or St. Louis or Baltimore or Boston.

No explanation is offered, but we believe the figures reflect a high standard of living.

Pittsburgh is noted for its wealth, and while all of us cannot be "Pittsburgh millionaires" it is evident from the average expenditures of Pittsburgh housewives for groceries that the tables of most of us are spread a little more bountifully than the tables of people in the other large cities.

The distinction that the figures give Pittsburgh is one worth retaining.

Court of World Politics

Austro-German Customs Union Decision Strengthens Opinion That Court Is Catspaw of League of Nations.

The League Court—which America is asked to join—has revealed itself as "an international institute of politics."

Such is the caustic comment of the Washington Post in an editorial on the Anschluss decision. The Post said:

"Even friends of the so called World Court are discouraged by its decision on the legality of the proposed Austro-German customs union.

"This performance by the so-called World Court confirms the prevalent American opinion that the tribunal is not a true court of international justice, but a catspaw of the League of Nations, set up to give a semblance of legal sanction to the views and activities of that European group which controls the League.

"The World Court has brought discredit upon itself. Its usefulness in the settlement of any vital controversy that may arise in the future is nil because the world knows that the Court is not a tribunal of law, but an international institute of politics."

The Baited Trap

Embittered European nations, strife torn, tax burdened, poverty stricken, while brawling amongst themselves, have one cause in common—to transfer, as quickly as possible, the heavy cost of the Great War to the United States, to American taxpayers.

Europe's suave diplomats, trained in the ways and wiles of the Old School, are determined to trap the American Eagle and clip its wings.

The year's moratorium on all war debts is the corn, with which they would entice the Eagle into the jaws of the Cancellation Trap.

Cancellation—repudiation—of all their just debts to this country, which saved them in the Great War, is their ULTIMATE AIM.

Let Congress be on guard to protect American taxpayers from the machinations of the wily foreign diplomats by DISAVOWING the MORATORIUM, REFUSING SANCTION to any "WAR DEBT RECONSIDERATION" and thus BLOCK CANCELLATION.

Oh, Say Can You See—

What Is Happening AT HOME?

Somebody ought to take this telescope out of Uncle Sam's hands and direct his gaze to the view at home.

There are things here that need his attention more than the sights of Europe that now hold him spellbound.

There is unemployment, for one thing. There is Prohibition, for another. There is crime, for a third.

Each is more important to people on this side of the water than all of Europe's troubles.

Uncle Sam can settle them if he will look at them, and then ACT on them.

He can do nothing about them, you may be sure, while he keeps his eyes glued on a continent 3,000 miles away.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Love Market

The only question in a modern girl's mind appears to be whether she'd rather be fascinating enough to get a rich husband, or rich enough to buy a fascinating one.

* * *

Whether to stock to dermatology and beauty culture, spend her money on silk stockings, go into the chorus and find a man who is willing to be her angel, banker and cash register. Or to stick to business, save her pennies and some day find an attractive young man who is willing to be bought and paid for and will squander her dollars.

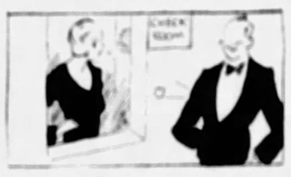
All the rich men are marrying check-room cuties, telephone sirens, beautiful shopgirls, chorines and bathing beauty prize winners.



And all the rich women are taking gigolos "to raise" or marrying their sons' college mates and fraternity brothers.

The odds are sort of even whether a girl decides to be a rich man's house pet or a poor man's checkbook.

* * *

About a year seems to be as long as any of these "bargain marriages" ever last, and two weeks is their average life. Lots of them expire two days after the wedding from sheer nausea or anaemia.

The girl who marries a man purely for the love of his checkbook soon finds that he is either the kind who bores her to death or the kind who bosses her to death, and wants to order everything around the house, from the meal hours to her hats and the brand of her tooth powder.

Or else he is the kind who insists on keeping separate automobiles so that he and his wife can travel separate roads, who changes his heart every time he changes to his dinner coat, and to whom "life" is just one pair of dimpled knees after another.

On the other hand, these young "bought-and-paid-for" husbands are nearly always the kind that will never "stay put." After a few weeks of luxurious idleness they tire of the "bargain" and begin to look upon the woman's kisses as an income tax. They are not willing to give even a little imitation devotion in return for their board and clothes and cigarets. Their eyes may be upon the dollars—but they keep wandering to the flappers.

* * *

Happy the girl who is wise enough to look upon marriage as a partnership, and not as a get-rich-quick scheme, and who picks a hard-working boy, with whom she can work and play and struggle up the hill to success.

* * *

Nobody EVER got a "bargain" in marriage—because marriage is not a BARGAIN! It's a quid-pro-quo proposition!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—New York, like London, is besieged by an army of curb merchants. For a time, save along the library wall on Forty-second street, they had almost vanished. The fresh recruits followed the apple sellers who were given the freedom of the city for a time.

They are chiefly men superior to the calling and marking time until something better turns up. The best "pitches" are in congested districts during lunch hour and home-going rush. Any number show a pathetic nervousness and unprofessionalism.

Every imaginable gim-crack is offered—fountain pens, pencil sharpeners, neckties, sox, toys, cigar lighters and the like. Old-timers, of course, work with their rappers, but novices often just stand a little sheepishly holding out their wares.

Efforts to catch the economical eye among the seasoned spielers are often ingenious. Near the Flatiron building today a well-dressed man began clapping his hands sharply and motioning passersby to stand away from a lane he had formed.

Then gravely he laid a coin on the sidewalk, walked a half dozen steps and placed another coin. By this time he had formed a hyena-like circle of curious. Picking up the coins he began his spiel with: "I'm going to show how you also can pick up money along the street."

In no time at all he was offering "50-cent linen handkerchiefs for a dime." "All those buying," he cried, "pick up 40 cents." The ancient prize package swindle is also revived and it is surprising how many fall for it.

Planted $5 bills are placed in 20-cent packages of popcorn. These are sold to innocent looking people who open them before departing and extract the prize in view of suckers. Rubes for years have been laughing at this at county fairs. But it still clicks here.

In Over-the-Rhine Cincinnati days there was a blind and forlorn street merchant who hawked patented needle threaders, demonstrating them and giving to each purchaser "an album of 200 popular songs absolutely free." He had one of those minstrel tenor voices and would collect crowds by singing such favorites as "Take Back Your Gold," "On the Banks of the Wabash" and "Under the Bamboo Tree." I often walked to his pitch near People's theater at noon to listen and frequently wondered what became of him. For some reason he stood out as a sort of hero. Several years ago I ran across him singing in a second rate saloon in old Mexico, and billed as "Nugget Dan, the Blind Caruso of the Gold Fields."

I wonder if others who knew Cincinnati well have reflected upon the rythmic roll of its street names and suburbs. No other city, to my notion, offers such a simple and beautiful diapason. I recall such thoroughfares as Race street, Reading road, Government Square, Peoples' Corner, Fountain Square, Front street, Pike street and Rose Hill and suburbs such as Avondale, Mt. Auburn, Clifton, Walnut Hills, Price Hill, Winton Place, Norwood and Hyde Park. Its tenderloin, incidentally, was once Longworth street.

Yet thoroughfares are beglamoured by environment, I suppose. After all there is nothing very striking about Fifth avenue as a name. But it inspires wonder wherever mentioned. For sheer dash London's street nomenclature is unexcelled. Pall Mall, for instance. And Regent street. The Strand, Oxford Circus and Picadilly. The ugliest named section is The Bronx in New York.

* * *

The most romantically named street in the world, I think, is Shanghai's Bubbling Well Road. It suggests pale moonbeams on dipping sampan paddles, the crystal spatter of stars and softly whispered nothings. Tommy Millard tells of his first drive along it in a ricksha. He was keyed to a charming sentimentality by the companionship of an equally charming lady. A long silence stole over them only broken by the lady's: "So far I haven't lamped a single chop suey joint."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

The tiny girl leaned against my knee and smiled up into my face.

"See!" she said proudly, holding up a bit of paper.

I looked at the paper. I could see only some faint, scribbled lines, without form.

The little girl felt the question in my eyes. A shadow wavered across her face—then a small defiance.

"It is a rose," she said firmly—but she looked as a puppy looks, when he wants you to pat him.

I knew that look. I had felt that way myself.

"Yes, dear, it is a rose—a lovely rose," I answered quickly. And we beamed together over her masterpiece.

Then she went off to play. And I sat thinking the long, sad thoughts that sometimes come.

I thought how valiantly we dream when we are young—

So sure our gallant dreams will all come true.

And then the years move on, and we move with them, dreaming still.

A little fearful now, perhaps. Not quite so sure that we will set the world afire . . . but making mighty gestures . . . talking big!

Starting so many splendid, daring deeds—

Finishing so few!

More years.

The path behind us is all littered with our broken dreams.

Yet still we think that somewhere, just ahead, the Big Adventure waits—

A little while and we will show the world!

A little while—

Another chance—

A new and finer love—

A bigger and better job—

Then things will click—at last!

And they will see we weren't just puttering 'round.

Those times we failed? Those times we went astray?

We didn't know, then, what 'twas all about.

But now we know. And now each stroke will count. Soon they will see the whole—our perfect, finished plan. Soon they will see and cry—"How wonderful!"

A little while.

Then, suddenly, the years are done—

And we are children, standing at God's mighty knee—

A scribbled scrap of paper in our hand—

With only some vague marks to show for all our work and dreams.

Will God, I wonder, scorn those poor, weak lines—

Say they mean nothing—punish us for wasting time?

Or will He see the pleading in our foolish eyes,

And answer, gently—"Yes, dear child, it is a rose?"

STAR GROUPS

By Archibald Henderson

At the opening of the present century, one of the most important and pressing tasks in astronomy was the acquisition of a more comprehensive knowledge of the entire sky. Gould had already constructed a catalogue of more than 40,000 southern stars; and Sir David Gill extended the famous catalogue, the Durchmusterung, from the point where Schoenfeld left it to the southern celestial pole. Early in the present century, there was begun a huge work, the Astrographic Chart and Catalogue, the joint work of 18 observatories in various countries. The material thus gathered proving somewhat unwieldy, this project was abandoned in favor of the "plan of selected areas" proposed by Kapteyn. Two hundred and six areas, distributed over the sky, were investigated and catalogues constructed, giving for the stars observed their magnitudes, parallaxes, proper motions and radial velocities. Various observatories co-operated in carrying on this huge task. Much work in charting the heavens was done by the Mt. Wilson and Harvard observatories. Data of sufficient amount were thus accumulated for obtaining an accurate idea of the star population of the heavens. Also new methods of measuring stellar distances were devised; and these have proved very useful, especially in the measurement of very remote celestial objects.

Detailed studies during the second half of the nineteenth century had supplied much information regarding proper motions of stars. Later investigations resulted in the surprising discovery of other motion known as "common proper motions." Not only do stars have definite individual motions, but groups of stars move through the heavens at a common rate—as if the stars were indissolubly connected together. Maedler created something of a sensation by his discovery of a common proper motion of the stars in the constellation Taurus. As early as 1870 Proctor found that five of the seven bright stars of "the Plough" in Ursa Major have a common proper motion. Indeed, by mathematical computation, he showed that the chances that the group of seven stars formed a drifting set was 500,000 to 1.

Since that time many moving clusters have been found by Kapteyn, Eddington and Benjamin Boss. Among these are moving clusters in Persens and in Orion. In 1877 Flammarion discovered pairs of stars with common proper motion. The most notable pair, as pointed out by Macpherson in Modern Cosmologies, is the bright first-magnitude star Regulus and a faint eighth-magnitude star known as Lalande 19,749. In 1881 Schoenfeld drew attention to two ninth-magnitude stars in Libra, separated by a wide space and yet moving at exactly the same rate in the same direction.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You talk a great deal about law observance.

You frequently are heard to say to young folk in your home and to others with whom you come in contact that if they were good American citizens they would not violate the laws of the country.

You may be a golf player, prominent man in your section, you sometimes give rides to caddies, back and forth.

These young lads consider you a respected citizen and some think if they can but follow your example, they may reach a place as prominent as yours.

Some of these boys may come from homes where restrictions of the law are considered hindrances to freedom of thought and action.

As an American citizen you should set a good example before them.

But do you?

In traveling to and from the golf course do you not step on the accelerator and greatly exceed the legal speed?

These youngsters know the lawful driving speed and they realize that you are going faster than you should.

Perhaps some of them drive cars.

If you, a prominent citizen, break the speed law why should they respect it is about the way they reason it and if you break one law why can't they break some others.

(Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.)

Isn't It So?

The best thing to take on a vacation is yourself.

A man's best friends are likely to be those he doesn't meet often.
